Foreword

The 1960 edition of the Siquaeris endeavors to present a picture of what St. Anthony of Padua Minor Seminary and Preparatory School has to offer our Catholic boys in the way of a preparatory education.

The aim of St. Anthony's is to prepare worthy, intelligent, and upright young men called to serve in God's vineyard for spiritual leadership in the religious and secular priesthood. St. Anthony's also offers an opportunity for other young men called to the various professions of life to acquire the necessary knowledge and education for a selected profession.

This all-embracing objective is achieved through a carefully planned program of religious, intellectual, social, and physical activities—a program of education designed to develop a Catholic character in the leaders of tomorrow.

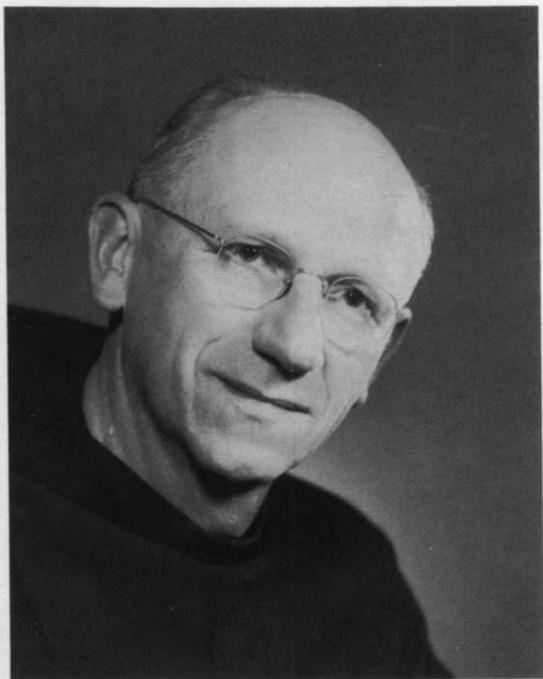

Proud of our school and grateful for the training received, we present this book to the reader for his appreciation.

Our

The task of the Faculty was immeasurably aided outside the classroom by the Franciscan Brothers. In the kitchen, bakery, infirmary, laundry room, boiler house, and wherever our need or comfort or their duty placed them, these Friars set us an example of our ideals in action. Their lives best illustrated, in a never-to-be-forgotten manner, the lesson of the true value of things material and immaterial.

Brothers

There was something encouraging and impressive about these Brothers as they cheerfully performed their endless and seemingly monotonous tasks. It was this, no doubt, which proved to our youthful minds that the ideals we were taught harmonized with reality.

Hero worship is a natural phenomenon of youth. Could we have chosen better human heroes to worship than these Franciscan Brothers?

My dear Graduates,

You have finished what you set out to do. Here at St. Anthony of Padua Minor Seminary and Preparatory School you have received a Catholic education. Athletics have strengthened your bodies; academic subjects and your religion have developed your intellect and will, preparing you to live a full and fruitful Catholic life.

Now you are going forth to contribute your talent and your lives to the service of God and of your community for the betterment of mankind and the good of your own soul, whether you go on to the major seminary or to college. In whatever vocation you pursue, the education you have received here will serve you in good stead.

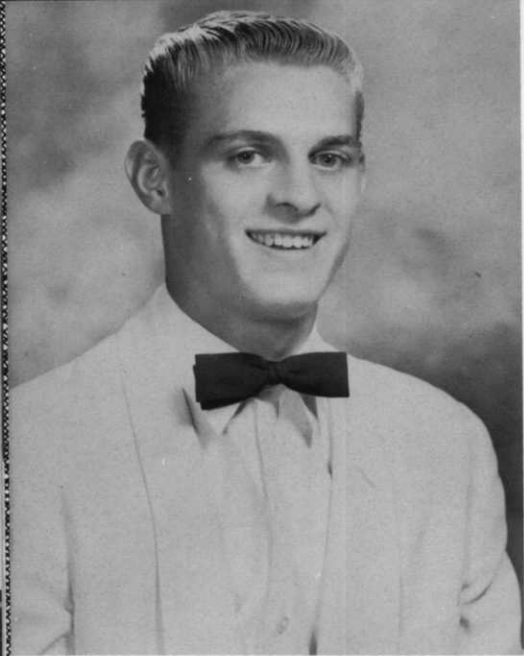

Let me congratulate you one and all, beloved graduates, on your attaining your heart's desire, the coveted diploma. Each and every member of the faculty rejoices with you. In their name and mine let me say to you God speed.

Cordially yours,
Fr. Claude Zabinski, O.F.M.

In the beginning of every school year the student body of St. Anthony's looks forward to the first event on the calendar, the annual retreat.

Fr. Martin Kropidowski, O.F.M., opened the retreat on September 21, with the purpose of giving the Paduans a good and healthy spiritual outlook at the year ahead.

Despite its brevity, this one and a half day of silence gave the students the chance to speak to Christ and make resolutions to better themselves for the future.

After the lengthy summer vacation of leisure and spiritual laxity, this retreat greatly aided the Paduans in finding and correcting their faults.

The Sodality

Sodality officers Joseph Czermak, Thomas Janidlo, and Joseph Beseda.

In the last few years, the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary at St. Anthony's, with the help of its moderator, Fr. Roland Jaskulski, O.F.M., has become an organization to which the entire student body belongs and especially cherishes.

The particular aim of the Sodality is to build up and renew the whole inner man by means of true veneration of the Blessed Virgin in order to render him capable of, and zealous for all works of spiritual love and charity. Using this as a guide, Fr. Roland encouraged the boys to a greater devotion to our Heavenly Mother.

The main undertaking accomplished by the Sodality was the May Day exercise on Mother's Day. A procession of the entire student body commenced the activities and was followed by the crowning of the Blessed Virgin Mary by Thomas Janidlo, president of the Sodality.

Third Order

Third Order novices.

Professed members of the Third Order.

Fr. Dominic Turajski, O.F.M., moderator of the Third Order, has often stressed the purpose and privileges of being a member of this Order.

St. Francis established the Third Order as a layman's order for those who had contemplated his way of life but were held back by one thing or another. The Third Order has increased in enrollment and has spread throughout the world. On October 3, the eve of the feast of St. Francis, nineteen new novices were accepted into the Order. On October 4, the twenty who had completed their novitiate the previous year became professed.

During the regular monthly meetings Fr. Dominic explained the rule of the Order and its purposes. He stressed the importance of being models of St. Francis and of making their everyday life pleasing to God. A strong Christian character, as well as a close following of the rule of St. Francis, was maintained and practiced by the members of the Third Order.

Officers of the National Honor Society.

Having been firmly planted in the school curriculum the previous year, the Padua Chapter of the National Honor Society again began its functions for the 1959-1960 scholastic year. Reverend Bertrand Bluma, O.F.M., remained the society's advisor. Joseph Flis, elected to the presidency for his second term, was ably assisted by his cabinet of officers: Stanley Zagraniczny, vice-president; John Sowa, secretary; and Thomas Walczak, treasurer.

Once again the new probationary members were scrupulously selected by the vote of the faculty. The requirements for membership remained unchanged: strong character, high scholastic ability, natural leadership, and devoted service. A member inducted into the National Honor Society must endeavor to serve as a second teacher both spiritually and intellectually—spiritually by a fine Christian example and intellectually by offering scholastic aid to other students who do not possess such talents as he does.

The main objective of the National Honor Society is the molding of the young high school adolescent into an upright Catholic man.

Dramatics

Once again the talented thespians of Padua brought forth their acting abilities to present a fine and frolicking production. Under the direction of Fr. Eric Skalski, O.F.M., they opened the dramatic season with a variety show. Main features of the show were a satire on a few current TV fads and a fashion parade.

The skits were written by the students who participated. From two weeks' rehearsal, with various last minute changes and hectic confusion, emerged a hilarious and successful show. Students from all classes performed with great enthusiasm and enjoyment.

A Senior committee consisting of Thomas Wojslawowicz, Stanley Grysko, Leonard Kuminski, Ted O'Karma, and Richard Gill aided Fr. Eric and the boys by polishing the skits, obtaining ideas, and preparing the show. Staging and lighting were under the direction of the Juniors, headed by Louis Zglobicki.

Soccer

Fr. Emil gives a pep talk before the game.

Although their record of three wins, five losses, and one tie does not indicate a great deal of success, the Cascaders can be proud that they played only highly rated teams. Fr. Emil's returning veterans provided the team with the needed experience, though we cannot forget to mention the fine efforts of the underclassmen, and made this season a very exciting one.

The opening game of the season proved to be a thriller, as the Cascaders downed Hammondsport 2-0. The finest game was played against the always tough Campbell team. The fine offensive and defensive tactics used by the Cascaders terminated into an impressive 4-0 victory. The lone tie occurred at the climax of the season against Lakemont.

We can be proud of their enthusiasm and determination to play and win.

Soccer Intramurals

The new school year was just a few weeks old when Padua, in conformance with the maxim "mens sana in corpore sano" (a sound mind in a sound body), initiated its intramural program for 1959-60 with the rough and tumble sport of soccer. Ten of the varsity players chose teams from the student body. These ten teams were then split into two leagues, A and B. After a preliminary round the teams were rearranged into the two leagues according to their "wins' average" to balance the competition. This adjustment was also made after the second round. A third and final round was played for the individual league crowns. The soccer season afforded enjoyment, excitement, and exercise for all.

Sowa Wins Soccer Title

A rain-drenched athletic field was the arena for the big play-off game between Sowa's team, champs of B league, and Clouser's team, victors of A league. The slippery field, however, did not dampen the players' spirits nor did it hamper the game. It was an action-packed half hour battle between two evenly matched teams contending for the coveted trophy. The slow moving first half remained scoreless. Pandemonium broke loose in the second half. It seemed that Clouser's high spirited eleven would take the upper hand, but all of their many goal attempts terminated in failure. A penalty kick by Louis Zglobicki early in the second half was the only scoring of the game. Thus, Sowa clinched the title 1-0.

Soccer Class Competition

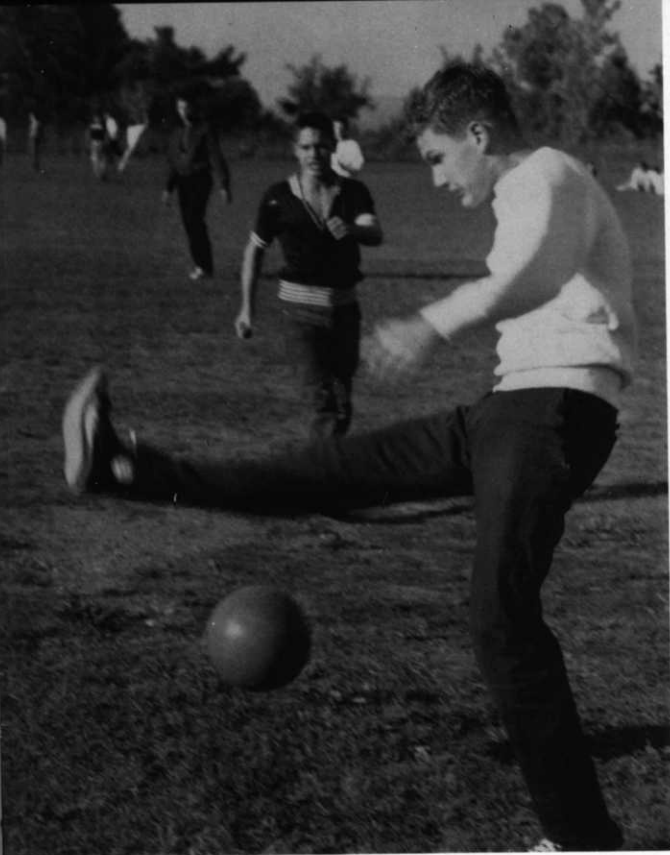

Shouting and cheering could be heard on the soccer field as class competition for the sweepstake trophy began. The Seniors scored an easy 8-0 victory over an unexperienced but tough Freshman team. Although their team lost, the "Frosh" showed fine spirit, determination and good sportsmanship. The second game pitted the Juniors against the Sophomores. At the start the Juniors played a tight defensive game matching point for point, before breaking loose to win 6-3. The next two games saw good offensive playing. The "Sophs" handed the Freshmen their third defeat by the score of 8-4. Tables were turned, however, when they lost to the Seniors 6-0.

The last game between the Juniors and Seniors proved to be the best game of soccer class competition. Holding a 2-0 lead for three quarters, the lower classmen displayed fine defensive and offensive playing. A penalty kick scored for the Seniors proved to be the spark that set the forest afire as they booted in two goals to win 5-2. Class participation, good sportsmanship, and the spirit displayed will always be remembered in these games.

Under the direction of coach Mr. Joseph Lemak, the Varsity Cascaders posted a winning mark of 11 victories against 6 losses.

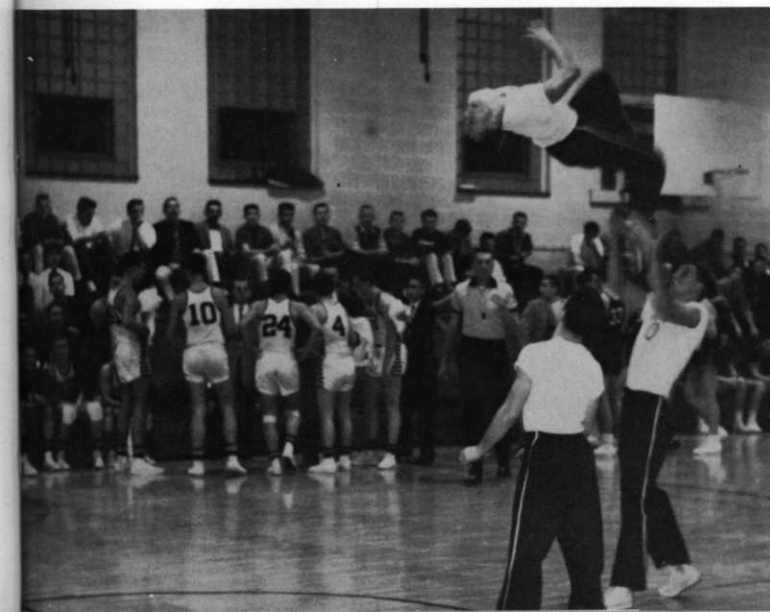

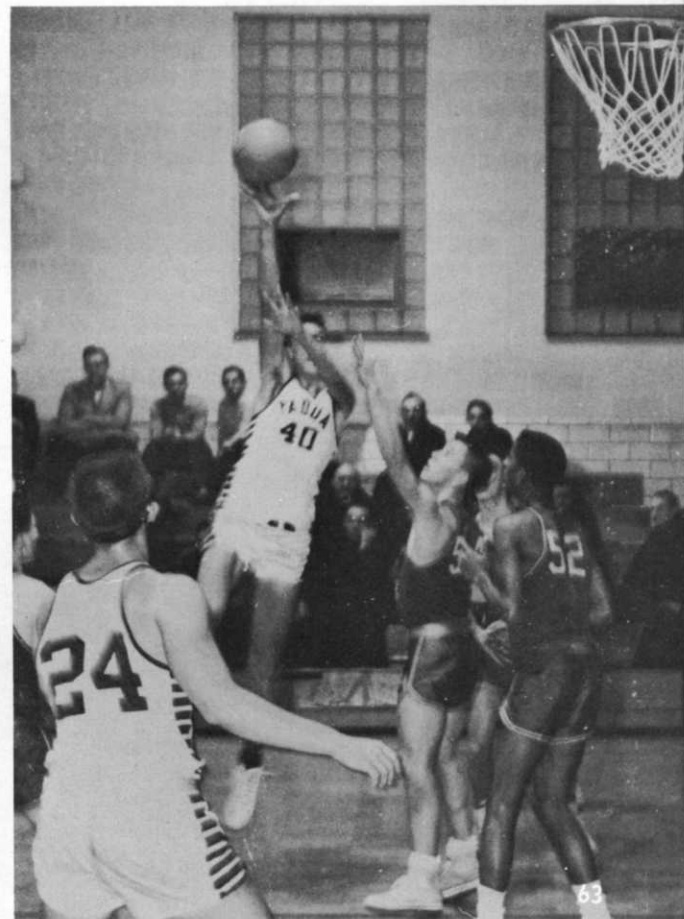

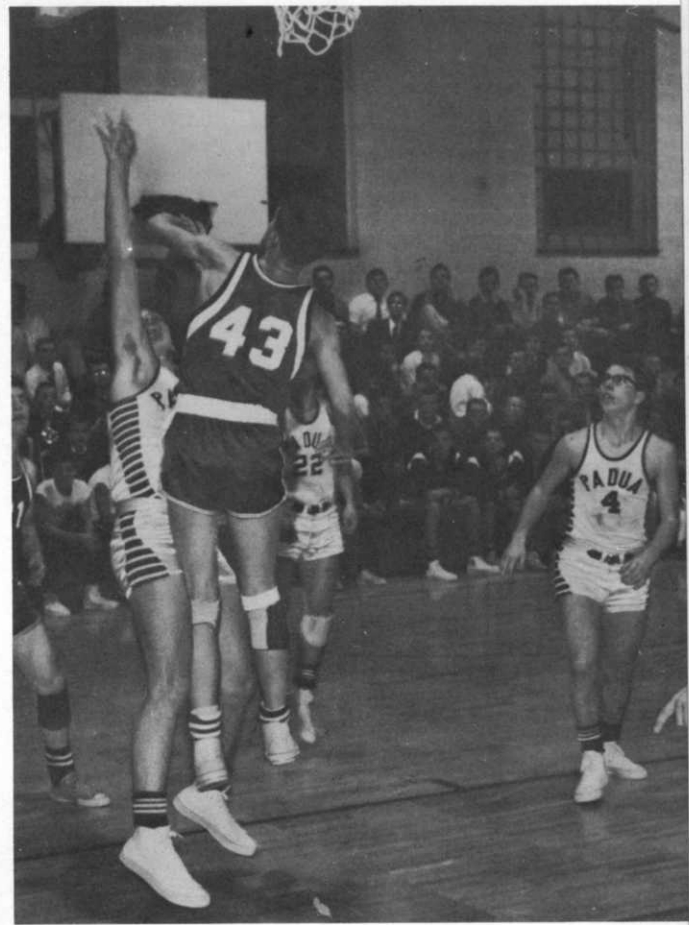

Much was expected of the returning squad, since most of the boys were veterans of last year's team.

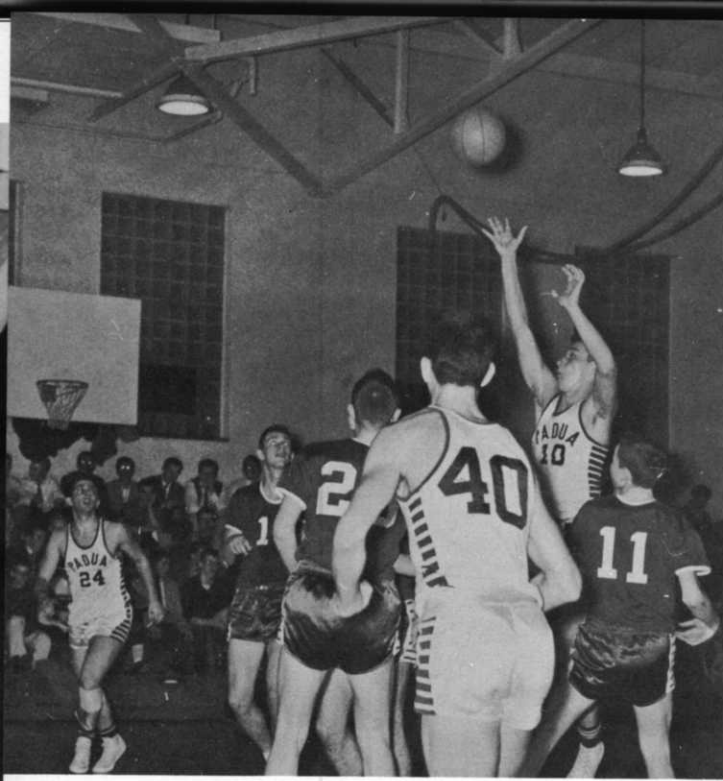

Well-balanced height, advantageous use of the fast break, and accurate shooting supplemented the varsity five in compiling this winning record.

This year we are proud to mention that Jack Marcheski, pictured at the left dunking the ball, broke Ed Opiola's 1955 individual scoring mark of 34 points by sinking 35 during the last regular season game against Horseheads.

Junior Varsity Basketball

Through Fr. Emil's fine coaching and discipline, Padua's "Little Five" ended with a winning record of 11 and 5. The team was constantly shuffled due to injuries and mishaps; but, nevertheless, Fr. Emil always came up with a versatile, hard-hitting combination. Out of a few good players he produced one great team which was difficult to match.

Towards the middle of the season a few Juniors were added, and the J.V.s sparked a new winning streak. With this extra power they were even more unyielding. In all of their games the team showed splendid ball handling, accurate shooting, and many other virtues possessed by an excellent squad. With this, and the cheering support of the school, they went on to make one of Padua's best J.V. records.

Basketball Intramurals

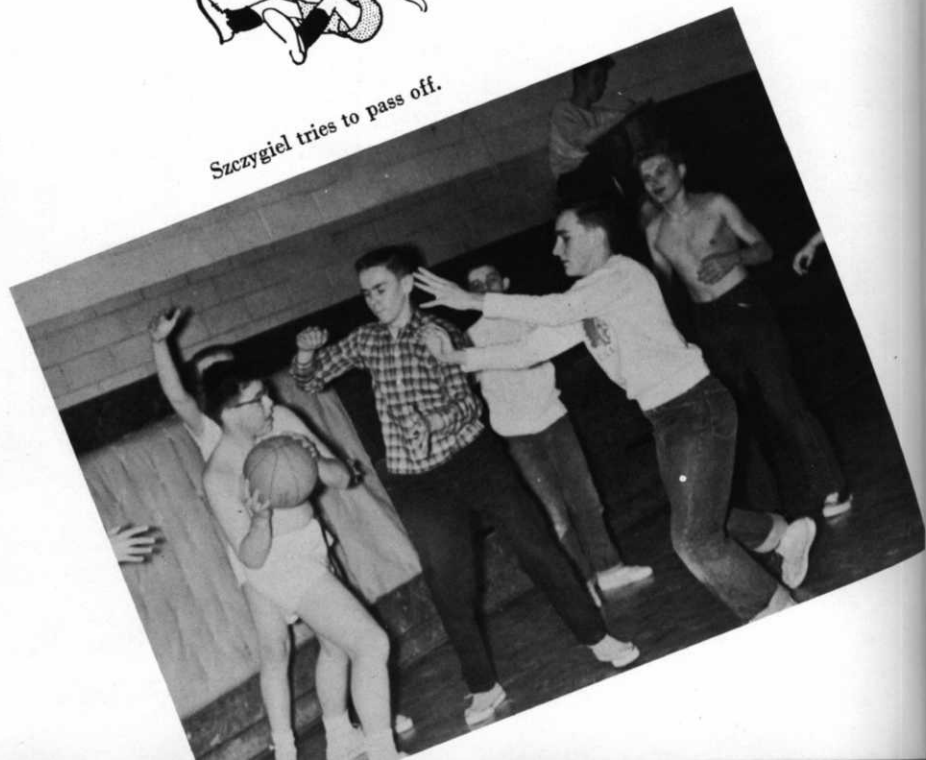

Szczygiel tries to pass off.

Greater interest and competition resulted from the four-league program that went into effect this year. Here, as in the past, members of the Varsity and Junior Varsity picked their own teams and acted as coaches. The teams were categorized according to individual ability in order to provide a more even level of competition in each league.

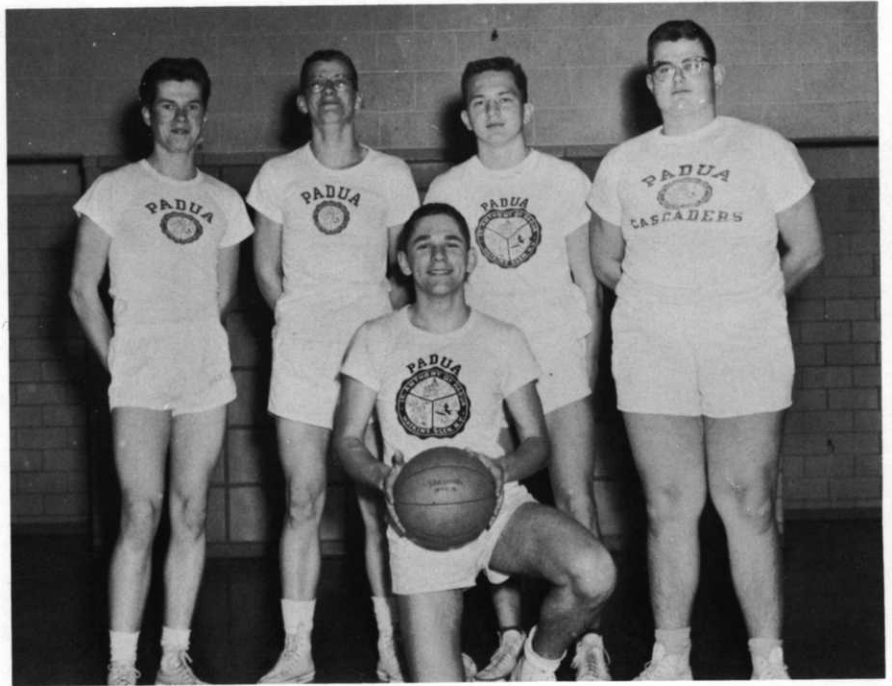

After Christmas recess the teams were rechosen so that the coaches might try to improve their teams.

A total of 135 students participated. Heated races developed in all the leagues and none of the champions were decided until the final games. The hottest race was supplied by "A" league where four teams battled it out all the way to the wire.

Parzych does his routine.

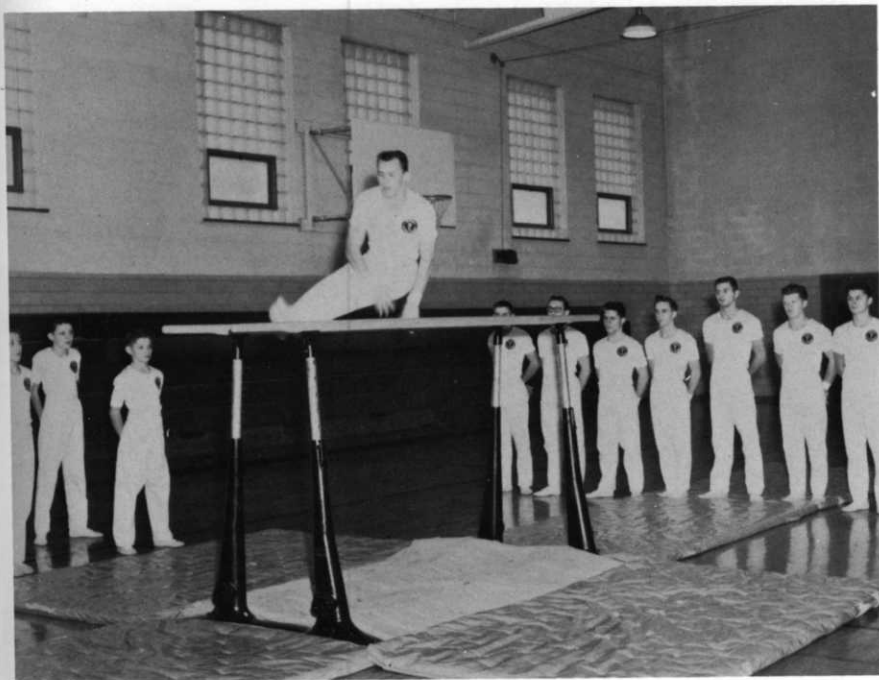

Students from all four grades compose the team. They devote an hour and a half each day for vigorous and often grueling practice. Health, strength and coordination are the benefits from this exercise. Besides benefiting physically, each gymnast may gain a trophy for himself if he is qualified to perform various feats on the different apparatus. These trophies are presented to the boys by Fr. Emil at the Achievement Night banquet towards the end of the school year.

Gymnastic Team

In 1957 Fr. Emil, O.F.M., organized the new popular gymnastic team. Under his competent supervision this team has grown each year in precision and esteem. On January 25 of this year the patience, perseverance, and hard work of the twenty-four boys comprising the gym team paid off. They were invited to give an exhibition of their skill at the New York State Physical Education Teachers' Convention in Buffalo, New York. The reaction of the 900 coaches who witnessed this exhibition of skill, grace, and endurance was tremendous. Fr. Emil and the boys received many words of congratulation after the performance. This gym team has also performed at local schools with the same response as at Buffalo.

October 31 again provided the setting for the annual Halloween marathon. Because of overcast and rainy weather, the marathon was held in the gym. This inclement weather, however, did not dampen the spirits of the excited participants. Screaming voices told of the hopefulness of the Freshmen, the defiance of the Sophomores, the determination of the Juniors, and the confidence of the Seniors.

The entire competition consisted of novelty races like the one-legged relay, the wheelbarrow race, the kangaroo relay, the weave-and-crawl under, and the dizzy izzy.

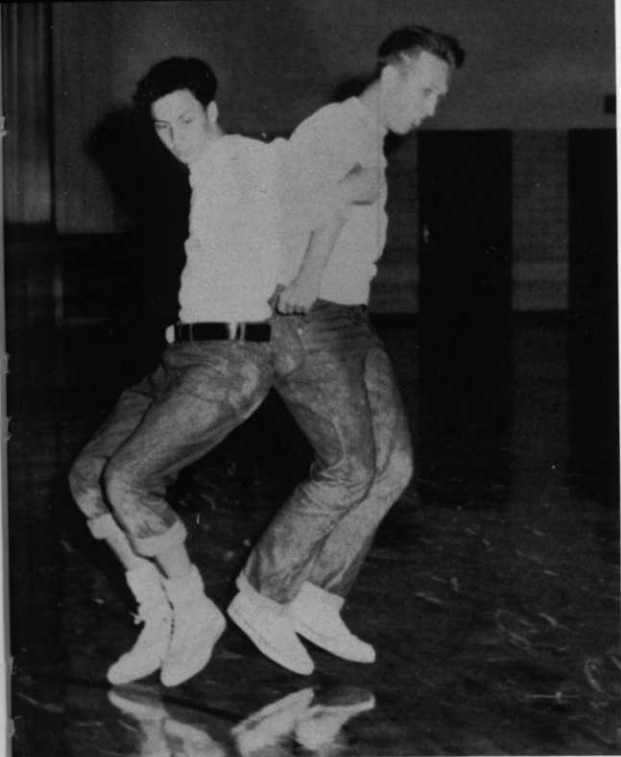

Marathon

Seniors hustle during marathon victory.

Actually the marathon brings to the fore two separate rivalries. The Seniors and Juniors compete for first place, while the Sophomores struggle to keep the Freshmen from scoring any points. Regarding the first rivalry, the Seniors emerged victorious over the Juniors by a wide margin. Surprisingly enough this year's Freshman class edged past the Sophomores.

The day's activities were climaxed by a cross-country race through the hills.

Sophomores keep in step.

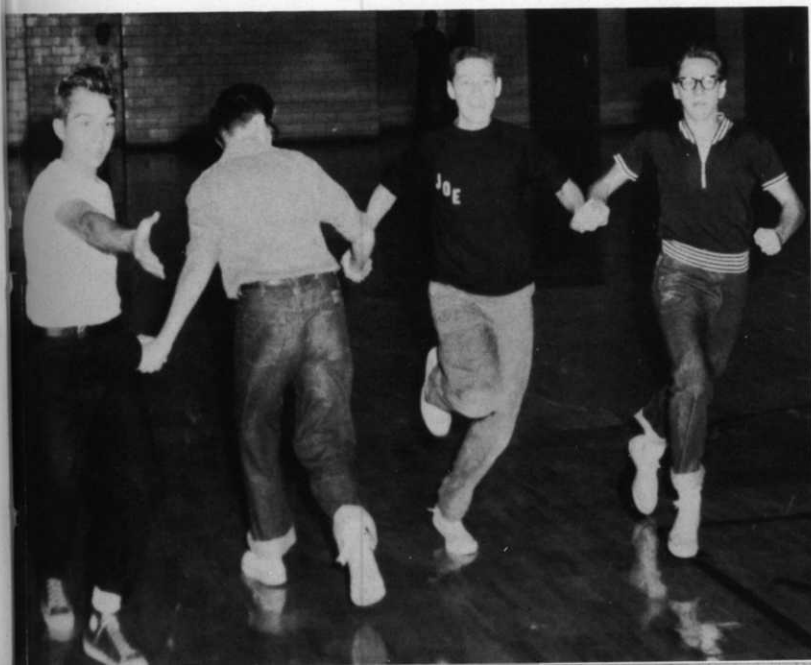

The entire student body enjoys the fun of the marathon races.

This course is an uphill run most of the way. Johnnie displayed his speed and endurance in conquering this course and has won for himself a beautiful trophy.

Which way are we going?

Bob Bahara does a leap frog over Gill.

Tournaments

The 1960 tournaments began with greater interest and enthusiastic rivalry, because nearly all of last year's winners were returning. They were ready to capture another trophy and to meet every challenger.

As the tournaments got under way, the sport prophets made these predictions:

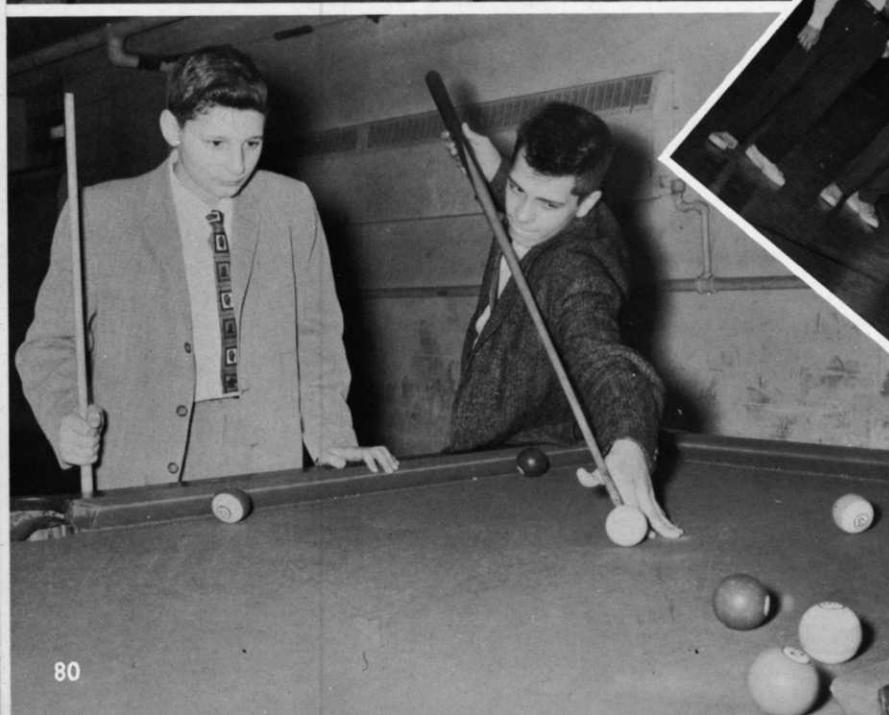

Ted O'Karma, last year's ping-pong champion, is expected to retain his title, although he will have to face some top competition from Joe Pomaski and Denis McCarthy.

Anthony Zembrzuski will again meet Joe Flis, whom he just edged out last year for the foul-shooting trophy.

The pool championship will probably be won by Joe Pomaski or John Sowa.

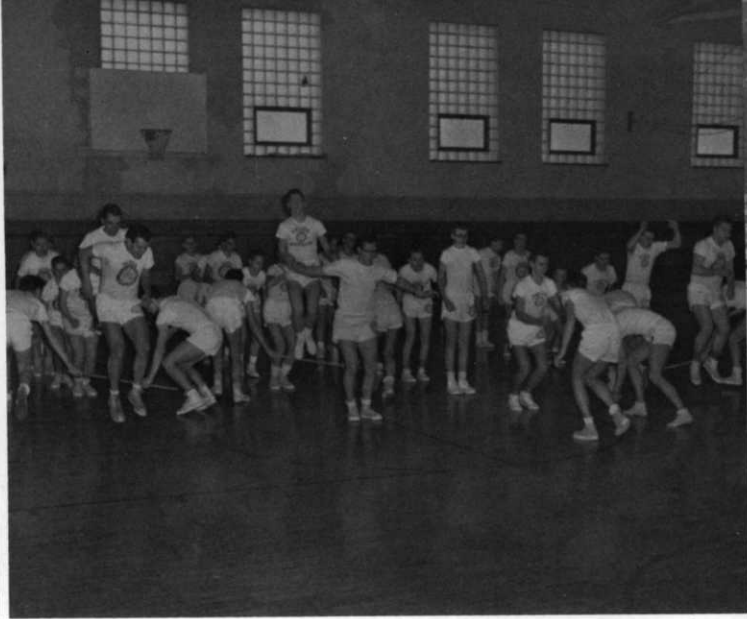

The shuffle-board champs, Zembrzuski and Bahara, will eliminate some top teams to maintain their championship.

Although these predictions are reliable, they are fallible.

Physical Education

An extended schedule of tumbling highlighted the formal physical education classes and gave the Padua students a well rounded program. In addition to the regular classes of calisthenics, the courses featured unfamiliar but interesting games. Physical education was again placed in the qualified hands of Mr. Joseph Lemak, assisted in the instruction of gymnastics by Fr. Emil.

Interest in gymnastics was stimulated through the success attained by the Padua gymnastic team. The new exercises provided many thrills and chills, especially on the trampoline and the parallel bars, which the boys unhesitantly encountered after conquering their fear of the awesome-looking apparatus.

This year the courses likewise featured instructions in theory on the more familiar sports of soccer, football, basketball, and baseball.

Gym Staff

Fairlie and Asiello.

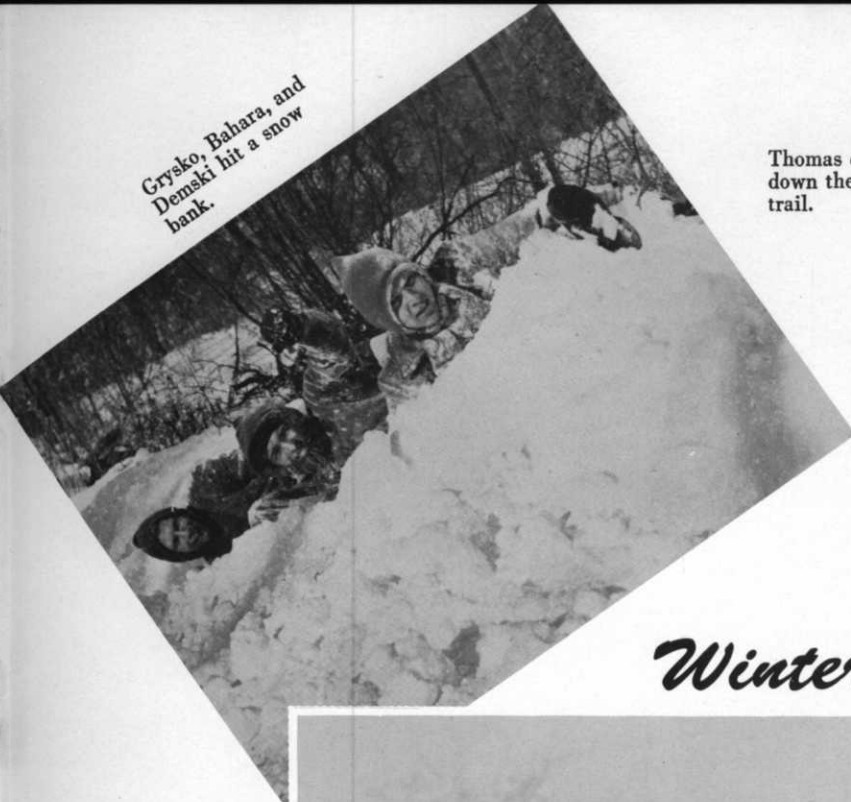

The athletic staff has once again done a commendable job in maintaining the gymnasium, the basketball court, and the athletic field. The staff consisted of: Seniors—Stanley Grysko and Albert Snopek; Juniors—Michael Bogusky and Peter Teutschman; Sophomore—Joseph Lubonski; Freshmen—Michael Asiello and Michael Fairlie.

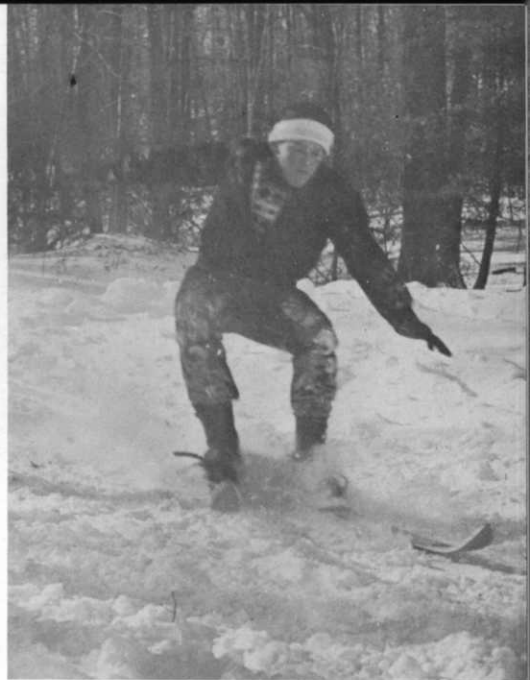

In addition to their chores in the gym, the members found time to act as managers for both Varsity and Junior Varsity sports and to conduct Padua's intramural program.

During the entire year the athletic staff conscientiously cared for the athletic equipment and facilities of the gym proper.
