The Brothers

The brothers form the most necessary part of Padua's staff and contribute much toward the management of the school.

All the manual labor is done by the brothers, because whatever they do, they do for God, for their own satisfaction, and for the salvation of others; no task is too lowly for them. Their work isn't published; they labor silently and joyfully, for theirs is a life of unselfish dedication.

As the Fathers by means of their lectures and conferences show us the way to God, the brothers by their prayers and good example attract us to the same lofty goal. To these, God's workers, we pay our deepest respect and show our tremendous appreciation.

Fr. Martial imparts the Papal Blessing ending the retreat.

Retreat

At Padua two retreats are held annually. Rev. Martial Lecznar was the retreat master for both retreats, at the beginning of the school year and at the mid-term.

These retreats give the students an opportunity to rest from studies, but most important a chance to unite themselves with God.

Guidance

Guidance is a very important part of the program at Padua. Every aspect of spiritual assistance is considered and extended through spiritual conferences for the student body and enlightening sermons at Sunday High Mass and personal advice from the counselors assigned.

Fr. Cajetan Bogdanski, the spiritual director, every Monday evening conducts special conferences for the minor seminarians. These talks, usually followed by a question-answer period, are a deciding factor in the case of many aspirants to the priesthood or brotherhood.

With only two lettermen returning from last year's squad, the Cascader soccer team was faced with a large rebuilding job. A completely new front line and backfield had to be organized necessitating a reshuffling of returning players. Father Emil, again returning as soccer coach, commenced the task with his usual enthusiasm. Due to the doctor's order, however, he was able to coach only until the lineup was set for the first game, after which Father Antonine Bachowski made his debut as soccer coach.

Although the Padua team had the determination to win, they only squeezed one win out of eight tries, partly due to little time for preparation, lack of experience, and a constantly changing first squad.

The Cascaders only victory was gained at the expense of Lakemont Academy in an overtime of two five-minute periods. In the first extra period Dennis Springer kicked in a penalty shot to give Padua a three-two edge. In the final extra period the Cascaders held the one point lead for their lone victory.

Intramural Soccer

"Don't just do something . . . stand there!"

That's my ball, kid.

As soon as the soccer varsity was organized, soccer intramurals got underway. Ten teams were chosen from the remaining student body. After a preliminary round was played, which gave the captains a chance to scout the potentiality of each student as a soccer player, teams were again chosen for the coming championship conflict.

A mixup in the final standings necessitated play-offs.

Teams became tense as the championship games began, but Springer's team soon took a commanding lead and went on to defeat Butka's spirited eleven by a score of 7-4.

Iraggi heads the ball.

Class Competition

"Should I kick him now, or wait?"

Championship fever arose as class competition in soccer started. Soon the classes began teasing each other as to who had the best team. Each class put forth their best available men in the true spirit of competition. With experience as a guide, the Seniors came out victorious over the lower classmen. In second place came the Juniors, while the Sophomores and Freshmen captured third and fourth places respectively. Class participation, good sportsmanship, and the spirit displayed will always be remembered in these games.

"I thought there was gravity."

"Shake it, Sred."

Cross-Country

Only in its second year of inter-scholastic competition, the Padua cross-country team expended great effort and evident spirit but had another losing season record. Coached by Fr. Mel Baran ofm., the Cascaders participated in six meets.

Halloween Marathon

Although the familiar shout of "trick or treat" is not heard on campus, Padua has its own special way of celebrating Halloween. Fun and serious determination feature the day.

Every student participates in the many relay races between classes to gain points for the Sweepstakes Trophy.

The annual 1.35 mile cross country run initiates the marathon. Richard Bonk, a sophomore, won with a time of 7:22. Ed Sudol and Roland Benedek were runners-up.

To the amazement of the confident Juniors, the Seniors took first place by a close margin of four points. Final scores were Freshmen 14, Sophomores 45, Juniors 55, and Seniors 59.

The outdoor barbeque and the movie erased all sad feelings of the losers and relaxed the aching muscles at the close of the day.

Third Order of St. Francis

Seven hundred years ago St. Francis began the Third Order for laymen, whose main objective is to strive for a more perfect life by example and spiritual works. The membership doesn't impose vows upon the group but rather requests that each member make a promise to say twelve Paters, Aves, and Glorias daily and strive for self-perfection.

Once again, this group proved itself an active society, sending materials to the Philippine Missions, as well as advocating the spiritual necessities of the needy with free will offerings.

Christmas is one of the most sacred days in the entire Church calendar. In accordance with established tradition, Paduans celebrated the birth of Christ with appropriate solemnity at Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and shared the joy of giving and receiving at the annual Christmas party.

Giving was in the form of entertainment. The skits put on by each class brought chuckles and laughs, and the singing of the Christmas carols stirred up an universal joyful spirit. Gifts received from home added to the happiness of the evening.

After Father Mel delivered his talk on the different ways people feel about Christmas, the Christmas party ended with the singing of the Anthem in honor of Our Heavenly Mother.

This year the student publication has been moderated by Fr. Eric, under the editorship of John LaSalle and Joe Sredinski. One may often see them and their staff burning the night oils just before deadline in order to have the paper out on time.

Due to many responsibilities, Joe Sredinski stepped down from his editorship to Creative Ideas Editor, leaving John LaSalle Editor-in-chief.

Special thanks is due to Mr. Pete Piper of the Glen Publishing Co. "Pete" has been quite patient with our problems, even to the extent of continually working overtime and cancelling his personal engagements in order that the paper come out on time.

The Graduates

1962 is a commemorative year at St. Anthony's. A commemoration because the class of 1962 is the 10th to graduate.

The first graduation class was in 1953, a class of 20 members. Since then, with the graduation of the class of 1962, ten senior classes have come as immature, unprepared Freshmen and four years later passed through the portals of Padua as developed and mature men to enter the world.

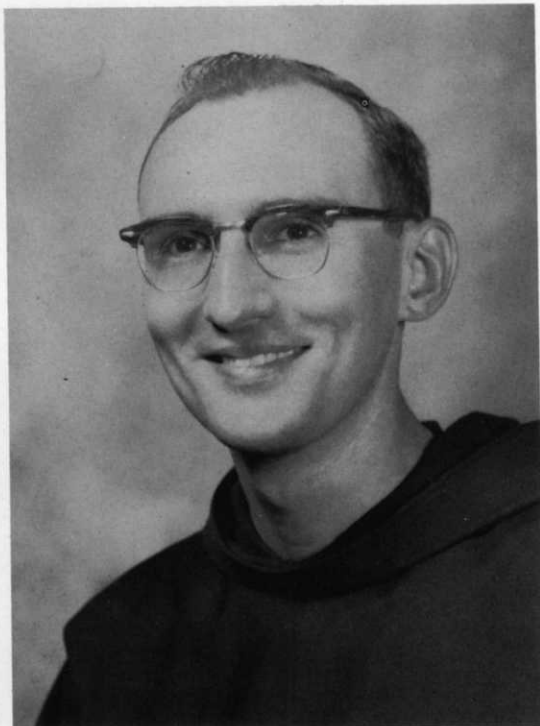

With a Freshman class of 35 the class of '62 adapted themselves to a home away from home and a regular, rigid schedule of boarding school life. Fr. Xavier Wilk led the class through their first hectic year.

When they returned in 1959 as sophomores, they had twenty-nine members in their class. Guided by a new moderator, Fr. Brendan Wroblewski, the second year men passed through the year with many memories of laughter and hardships. During the year they chose St. Christopher as their class patron and the motto "Forward in Faith and Knowledge" to initiate a forward stride.

As Juniors, the class of 1962 felt the responsibilities of upperclassmen and occasionally experienced authority over the underclassmen. The long awaited school ring, worn with an air of distinction, became the pride of every Junior.

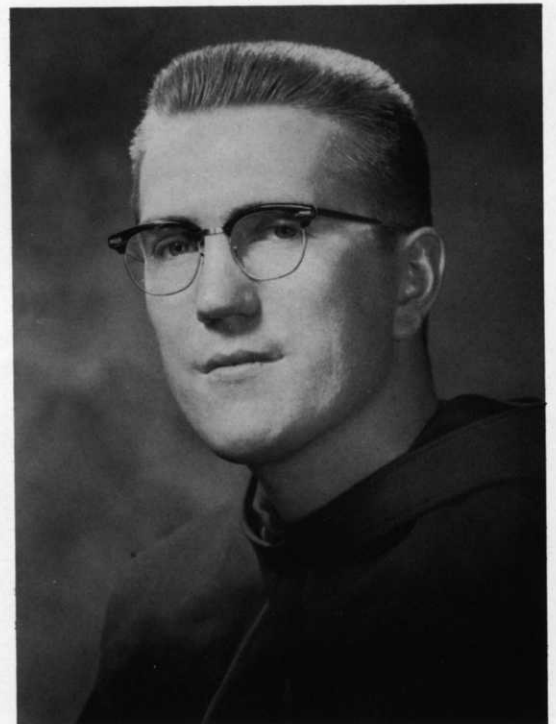

In September of 1961, the last and final year at Padua began. The eighteen members of the class took up the responsibilities of leaders of the school. Under the guidance of Fr. Brendan, it was their duty to instruct, lead and act as models for the underclassmen.

Now at graduation, four years of development have led these men to maturity. The class of 1962 is prepared to meet the future.

Fr. Brendan Wroblewski, O.F.M.

Robert J. Bartosavage

Plymouth, Penna.

Elected president of the class during our sophomore year, Bob participated in most club activities. He also took an active part in sports, winning a Varsity letter in Basketball and Soccer. Bob will be remembered as one who willingly cooperated with everyone. The cover design of this yearbook is accredited to him showing a hidden art talent. He will pursue further studies in Biology or an Air Force career.

Becoming a member of the gym team was one of his accomplishments along with the position as news writer of the Paduan. His classmates will well remember him for his ability in getting along with everyone. Joe wishes to enter the field of psychology.

Even though John was an active member of the gym team, he didn't neglect his scholastic abilities. He was active in sports, winning recognition in soccer and cross country. John has also been an earnest worker, helping to keep the heartbeat of Padua running smoothly. He will be remembered for his ardent zeal to master our newest language—Greek. He has the teaching profession in mind, majoring in history.

Paul J. Gajewski

Bayonne, New Jersey

Whenever Paul was around there was never a dull moment. His fine sense of humor and uncanny wit often brought laughter to his classmates. He had an active interest in sports, winning a letter in varsity basketball and was a member of the gym staff for four years. Beal was the sports editor of this yearbook, and athletic director of our class for 1 year. The United States Marine Corps has caught Paul's eye for the future years.

Michael B. Gulas

West Hazelton, Penna.

Mike was the studious type throughout his four years. Mike maintained first place in scholastic achievements both in class and in school. As head librarian Mike tried ardently to keep the library in top condition. President of our class for our junior and senior years, he guided and represented through many difficulties. To be a Franciscan in the Assumption Province is Mike's intent for the future.

Big John has been a good sport through his four years; we all love him even though we kidded him about his stature. He was an active member of the Campers club in which he was elected president for a term. Accredited to John is the efficiency of the laundry room and the intramural basketball program. Brother Vincent will always remember John as one of his faithful connoisseurs at mealtime. The diocesan priesthood is John's main objective in life.

In his Senior year Wally was timekeeper for the basketball games and scorekeeper for the soccer games. Although Wally didn't participate in too many extracurricular activities, he was usually available to help one and all. The future holds much in store for Wally when he decides on a suited vocation.

John F. LaSalle

St. Albans, New York

John was the business man in our class. Two of John's favorite jobs were manager of the PX and assistant in the bursar's office. His participation in drama, band, and library rounded out his extracurricular activities. As editor of the Paduan, John expressed varied opinions through his editorials. "Hey, John, when is that twelve page paper going to come out?" For his career John has chosen law.

Joseph J. Lubonski

Camden, New Jersey

Joe was by no means the timid and shy type of guy. Whenever he felt like expressing his opinion, Joe said it, be it serious or witty. As Prefect of the Third Order, Joe led it to one of its zeniths. His musical abilities, playing the accordion and singing on the Schola Cantorum will be a lasting memory to us. In sports he was a member of the Varsity basketball team. Did you ever get to play, Joe?? He was also a member of the N.H.S. Joe has medical research or anthropology in view.

Another one of our quiet classmates, Tom was always a faithful friend. He always was willing to help and help generously. As assistant cook he introduced Lasagne to our menu. For other activities, he was a member of the glee club, News writer for the Paduan and Business manager for the Siquaeris. Most of his free time he spent refixing the greenhouse and raising flowers in it. He was an intramural soccer champ in his junior year. As a profession, Tom has chosen architecture.

John T. Mielnik

Jersey City, New Jersey

Now here was a man of many moods. As a cross country team member, John received 2 letters. He, as were many of his classmates, was a member of the Frosh soccer team. In his Junior and Senior years, he was an early morning server and class prefect. The photographs in this yearbook and in the Paduan are a credit to John. M.M. has left many memories with his classmates. John wishes to be an electrician.

West Rutland, Vt.

Henry is the only guy in our class who hailed from Vermont. He also was the only member of our class who held the position of class officer for 4 years. Duke showed his interest in music as a member of the Schola Cantorum, chorus, and band. Duke was also a member of the N.H.S. and the gym team and scorekeeper of varsity basketball. Rising at 5:15 every morning, Duke served early morning Mass for Father Mel. Our memories will remember him as a serious, but humorous guy. Duke pursues accounting or an Air Force Career.

Garfield, New Jersey

Every Wednesday and Saturday Walter was usually busy cleaning the school. This was his duty as head of the maintenance department of the school. He received letters in soccer for his three years on the team. He was treasurer in our Sophomore year and vice-president of the class in our Junior and Senior years. As co-editor of the yearbook, Sibi planned many of the layouts used in the book. His willingness to work will be remembered by all. Sabo has no definite plans for the future.

DIDICUS

Known as Didicus to most of his classmates, he was regarded by them as the official poet of Padua. Some of his poetry appeared in a few issues of the Paduan. Aside from writing, Tom belonged to a few societies and the dramatic club. Although not too active in sports, he did participate in the baseball and softball games. We shall remember Tom for his friendliness and impartiality to his classmates. Tom wants to become a diocesan or an English professor.

Walter P. Snopek

BEAKY

Sports have dominated most of "Beaky's" extracurricular activities. He was a member of the gym team for 4 years, J.V. Basketball and soccer in his Sophomore year, cross country runner in his 3rd and 4th years and cheerleader. As co-technician of the dark room, Walt shares the credit for the pictures in this yearbook. The library staff claimed him for three years. As sports manager for our class, he kept us up to date on our sports achievements. A Physical Education teacher his goal.

Joseph A. Sredinski

Uniontown, Penna.

"Shredy" was the concerned type of guy. If Shredy didn't know it, nobody did. Shredy was active in many of the school activities and really took them to heart. As editor of the yearbook and co-editor of the newspaper, Joe was kept quite busy during his free time and at nights. Although he had to rise at 5 every morning to awaken the priests and servers, he stuck to his jobs and did them conscientiously. Shredy will always be remembered as the Polski kid; Polish his favorite subject. The diocesan priesthood is his goal.

Although Stan is the last man in our senior section, he is by no means to be forgotten. As an active member of sports, he won letters in baseball, soccer and cross country. As a result of a soccer game, Stan spent most of his senior year on crutches. "Wendy" was sports editor for the yearbook, and circulation manager of the Paduan. As an enthusiast of music, he was a member of the glee club and always up with the top ten. Wendy wants to be a dentist.
