New Gymnasium As Sketched by Local Architect

PADUA HIGH TO BUILD GYM - AUDITORIUM

School Authorities Granted Permission to Begin Construction This Year

The most exciting news of the year, here at Padua High School, was Father Claude's recent announcement that the governing body of the Assumption Province has granted permission for the school to build a new gymnasium.

It's true that for the past several months we have been hearing about the possibility of having some sort of gymnasium built, or at least re-constructed, in time for the beginning of the next scholastic year,—but until the official permission was granted, no one, not even Father Rector had any definite assurance that his and our dreams might soon be realized. And we do mean soon! Construction work may begin shortly after Easter.

It is believed that the main reason why the Provincial superiors did not give their official "seal of approval" for building the new gym even earlier in the year, is that they had hoped to secure a drill hall from the Sampson Naval Base. Such a drill hall could have been converted into a very spacious gymnasium and field house, and probably at much less expense too. However this plan had to be abandoned when it was discovered that none of the Sampson drill halls could be obtained or purchased.

As soon as Fr. Claude received the good news from Fr. Isidore, the Provincial Superior, he contacted Mr. Considine of the architectural firm of Haskell, Considine and Haskell, of Elmira, N. Y. The beautiful sketch which can be seen on this page, was submitted by the Elmira firm. Mr. Considine will probably be commissioned to draft the plans and blueprints for the new building.

According to the present tentative plans of the Fathers, the gym will be built on a site northwest of the athletic field, with the entrance facing south. It is to be a modern brick and concrete structure with seating accommodations for about 1,200 spectators. The lower floor will be equipped with six bowling alleys, and many other indoor recreational facilities. The main floor will also be used as an auditorium.

FIRST STUDENT RETREAT WAS MEMORABLE EXPERIENCE

To most students, the annual retreat was a novelty. As a result there was a feeling of uncertainty as to what one might expect of it. However, when the three days of spiritual reflection ended with the night of Jan. 31, the student body was very much pleased with the experience.

Fr. Remigius, O. F. M., the retreat master, conducted the spiritual exercises in an excellent manner. Being an outstanding speaker, he totally captivated the boys' hearts. We appreciated his efforts in trying to bring us closer to the Divine Master.

To their own surprise, the boys discovered that the keeping of silence was much easier than they had expected it to be. It gave the tongue a rest and put the students into the proper mood for reflection. This, together with the spiritual reading, the recitation of the Rosary, and the Stations of the Cross left a lasting impression on everyone.

Feb. 1st marked the Thirteen Hours Devotion in honor of Christ in the Blessed Sacrament. Throughout the entire day, each half hour saw two new faces adoring before the Sacramental King. During the closing services in the evening, Fr. Remigius delivered an inspiring sermon on the topic of frequent Communion. Then followed a procession and benediction.

That same night, boys living within a 30 mile radius of the

RECTOR HONORED BY FACULTY, STUDENTS, GUESTS

The fifteenth of February was a great celebration here at Padua, because that was when Fr. Rector was observing his feast day.

Naturally, we had no classes on that day. As we entered the refectory early Wednesday morning, we serenaded Fr. Claude with two "touching" songs, one to the tune of Santa Lucia, and the other one, based on that lively and still popular Beer Barrel Polka. The Fathers' table was decorated with freshly-cut flowers.

The Pioneer class then presented their Rev. Rector with a spiritual bouquet and a small gift, as a token of appreciation for all the good things he has done in the interest of the student body. As the first Rector of the school, his efforts were so much more appreciated, since many weighty problems arise which demand an unprecedented decision.

During the sumptuous noonday meal, turkey, with all its trimmings was the feature attraction. Among the guests and Fathers who were present to wish Fr. Claude the best of everything were: Mr. Henry McAnarney, Mr. George Shannon, Mr. Art Richards, Father Henry, the local Guardian, Fr. George, and Father Sylvester.

Many of the students spent the afternoon enjoying the Glen, which now is dressed in its winter beauty.

The perfect day was brought to a close with a movie, "How Green Was My Valley."

SIX STUDENTS SHINE SCHOLASTICALLY

To be on the Honor Roll is not merely to have one's name boldly displayed in Fr. Rector's office. Rather, the posted Honor Roll is an indication and a proof of the many tiresome hours spent in study—it signifies a determination which conquered man's natural lazy tendencies—it is an example of effort and victory which beckons all the students.

Six students have attained the coveted distinction of having their names placed on the Honor Roll.

They are:

Joseph Malina .....	97.1
Harold Nixon .....	96.1
Edward Lagonegro .....	93.4
Francis Zygmuntowicz .....	93.2
Gerald Schickel .....	92.6
Thomas Trainor .....	90.4

SCIENCE LAB TO BE READY SOON

A new, modern laboratory awaits young, prospective scientists here at the school.

The new lab will be housed in a separate building, the former "block house," the interior of which has been completely transformed. It has a celotex ceiling and a brown and yellow tile floor. The lower story of the building has been converted into a laboratory and the upper floor will serve as a lecture room.

An eight-foot instructor's desk has already been purchased. It has storage space and special fea-

THE LAST MILE

The hour approaches when the convict will be executed. Solemnly he walks the last mile at the end of which body and soul will be torn assunder. Friends, relatives, and inquisitive spectators stand at attention. Each thud of the heavy shoes on the stone floor, each move and action of the condemned one will live forever in the imaginations and hearts of those who see this final march.

Christ's last mile, at the end of which a cruel death by crucifixion awaited Him, was not an incident which concerned one man or even a group of spectators. After two thousand years the implication of that last mile is just as pertinent to each one of us as if we had been there to see the sweat and blood, and to hear the wild cries of the fiendish mob. Jesus made that last mile for us also, hence we should often recall its details so as to enkindle a spark of reciprocal love.

It is a pious tradition that the Blessed Virgin daily visited the scenes of Christ's passion and relived them as only a mother could. Following her example, Christians from all over the world made the journey to the Holy Land in order to visit the various places made holy because they witnessed the passion and death of Jesus. These holy places at which the pious pilgrims gathered were known as Stations.

Toward the end of the 17th century, individual churches began to commemorate the various events which took place during the Passion by displaying paintings and statues of the principal scenes. In this way the faithful were able to relive the Passion of Christ without making a tedious journey to the Holy Land.

Ever since the Franciscans were appointed custodians of the Holy Places in 1312, by their stirring eloquence and sincere piety they encouraged the faithful to have special devotion to these sacred scenes of the Way of the Cross. The most zealous of these missionaries was St. Leonard of Port Maurice who erected no less than 572 Stations of the Cross.

Pope Innocent XI, in 1686 granted the Friars exclusive faculties to erect stations in their churches, and he imparted all the indulgences, otherwise gained by visiting the Holy Land to the Franciscans making the Way of the Cross and to those in any way affiliated with them. Benedict XIII in 1726 extended this privilege to all the faithful.

Everyone can take active part in this devotion—no particular prayers are prescribed—all that is required is a brief meditation on each of the 14 stations at the end of which, one Our Father, Hail Mary and Glory be are recited for the intention of the Holy Father. A Plenary indulgence can be gained each time.

Christ's last mile should be ever before our eyes. We cannot stand next to a fire without feeling its heat; we cannot meditate on Christ's last mile and the love we see here without experiencing the warmth of a genuine love for our Redeemer.

WHAT DO YOU READ?

The month of February has been designated by the bishops of the Church in the United States as Catholic press month. Now, what does this mean to the average high school student? What can we do about promoting the Catholic press?

First of all, we can all get into the battle that the Church in our country is waging against bad comic books, so many of which are now flooding the market. Most of these are anything but comic, or "funny" books. Crime and vice seem to predominate in this type of cheap literature, and instead of laughs, the specialize in the blood-curdling variety of chills and thrills, with a generous sprinkling of so-called spicy situations, tossed in to attract the physically more advanced type of morons. It is up to us to do our part. Don't patronize such publishers; get your friends to cooperate in cleaning up this mess by boycotting the thrash put out by Crime and Filth Inc.

But this is only one part. We are lucky to have, in our library plenty of good Catholic books and periodicals. They are on the shelves and in the reading room not just to gather dust, but they are there to be read, and not by only a few but by all. Get the Catholic slant on things going on in the world by reading what Catholic authors have to say in the matter. They are competent men, well educated in their respective fields, and in the articles that you read they have the Church behind them—the Church and her teaching. Can you get any better authority than this? Sure, it's good if you can rattle off baseball, football and basketball scores without batting an eyelash. There is no harm in knowing the lineups of all the big teams, and the batting averages, etc., of your favorite players. But how will this help you lead a better Catholic life?

You can't go wrong by reading our Catholic books and periodicals. They will help you acquire the kind of knowledge and wisdom God wants you to have. This in turn will make it easier for you to live according to His holy Will. And living like that, my friends, is the best recipe for happiness.

SHOUTS AND WHISPERS

ACTIVE PARTICIPATION

Attending Mass on the 21st of February was quite an experience for us Paduans. For the first time we actively participated as a body in the Holy Mass, answering the prayers throughout the whole service.

The Community Mass promises to retain its popularity. It is especially helpful in keeping eyes, faces and hearts centered on the altar. There is no longer reason to permit oneself the doubtful luxury of "dozing off" during Mass.

Many expressed their joy in finding the beauty and excellence in the Mass prayers which hitherto, having been recited in Latin by the priest and the servers, made little or no impression on our fickle young minds.

SOMETHING NEW IN THE NEW SEMESTER

After the second semester was officially ushered in on Feb. 6th, a few important changes in the class program were immediately noticed by the student body.

Only boys of Polish extraction are now obliged to study Polish; however, two others, H. Nixon and T. Trainor, having made excellent progress in this subject, decided to continue it. Those students not taking Polish are occupied by taking typing, or by having study periods.

Because of the influx of 8 new students, special classes in Latin, algebra and English are conducted for their benefit.

In addition to the subjects taught previously, Fr. George now conducts classes in Guidance; Fr. Emmanuel, Speech; and Fr. Sylvester, Latin.

BASKETBALL ON OUR OWN FLOOR

After having seen the enormous machinery in the old power plant, we were skeptical as to the possibility of converting the room into a temporary gym. However, the Fathers thought differently. As a result, we are now playing basketball on our own floor and are admiring what determination, sacrifice, and hard work of the priests of the Poor Min of Assisi can accomplish.

A new cement floor has been poured, lines have been drawn, and two sturdy baskets have been set up. We can hardly ask for more.

LEGALIZED ARGUMENTS

Two debating teams have been chosen as a part of the course we receive in speech. The first topic to be discussed is, "Resolved that Padua High have a Student Council." If we show any promise in the art of self-defense, using only words as weapons, there is a possibility that we may have an intramural debating contest before the end of the school year.

A WAVE OF PREFECTS

Fourteen students, promising to uphold the discipline of the school were sworn into the office of prefects.

Leon Rys, as general prefect, heads the department. Though his task may be unpleasant at times, Leon's determination to do what is required of him, will make him a dependable prefect, respected by all. He is assisted by Edward Haydock, who acts as vice-prefect.

The dormitory prefects, each being responsible for the neatness of his dorm, are: Frank Czajkowski, Richard O'Connell, Edward Lagonegro, Joseph Kulinski, Conrad Szczepanski, Joseph Malina, Harold Nixon, Gerald Schickel and George Soback.

The dining hall prefects who "oversee" the tables are: John Dwyer, Frank Zygmuntowicz, Robert Eaton and George Soback.

LIFE CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

At times the 9:10 curfew can be very inconvenient. The semi-annual convention of the Bathroom Nightsitters' Club would like the lights on a little longer, especially during the week of exams. . . . The first class in typing opened with everyone poking keys and levers and then watching for further results. . . . It is seldom that compliments are given in this column but Tom Colihan kept his Retreat without breaking silence. Nice work, Tom! . . . Ed LaValley hates the picture, "How Green Was My Valley," after some wise guys decided to rename it, "How Green Is LaValley". . . . Padua's enrollment is increasing steadily. We "old timers" wish the newcomers luck on their new adventure. . . . Harold Spencer is disgusted with Cracker Jack. After having eaten the tasty contents of one whole box, he noticed that he didn't get a toy in it. He then came to the horrible conclusion that he must have eaten the toy! . . . "Big" Joe Trella sprained an ankle just when the snow outside was best for skiing. Don't cry, Joe, you'll have many more opportunities to wrap yourself around a tree before the season's over. . . . To Joe Kulinski's chagrin, he has been nicknamed, "Crisco." Too heavy on the spuds, Joe. . . . Brother Casimir, the infirmarian, feels lonely unless he has a few patients in his sick bay each day. But listen, fellows, don't overdo it — a little loneliness won't hurt the good Brother. . . . Instead of getting a haircut, Nippy Piwinski decided to take piano lessons from Tom Colihan. Long hair is very becoming to an inspired pianist. . . . It's unbelievable — every Saturday morning finds a dozen high demented men breaking down Fr. Sylvester's door, clamoring for odd jobs. Employing this last minute resort they hope to work off some of the irksome marks before the official tabulation is posted for the week. . . .

FROSH VARSITY UPSETS
ST. CASIMIR FIVE

Padua proved itself an ungracious host, by whipping the Red and Whites of St. Casimir's of Elmira by a score of 43 to 35 on the Watkins High court. Despite unfavorable weather, a sizeable crowd gathered to see the teams meet for the second time. Playing a close guarding game, the Cascaders made their opponents work for every point scored, while keeping the score in their own favor throughout the game.

Spencer again played an outstanding part in the victory altho the entire squad was clicking that night in a great display of teamwork. His total for the evening was a bog of 21 points. Dwyer with 6 was net in the scoring parade. For the losers, Long was high man with a total of 16 points.

NEIGHBORHOOD LEAGUE

At the present time the Cascaders are sporting a .500 average in all their league games. With the help of the newcomers McDonnell Czajkowski and Eaton, their opponents no longer have the advantage of height. Only a few more games remain to be played. Although there is no hope of winning the championship of the league, yet the Cascaders will certainly be among the finalists, and among the top teams in the final standings.

"DUKE" GETS PAT ON THE BACK FROM LOCAL SPORTSMEN

During the Second Annual Live Pheasant Shoot, and Field Trials held at the Schuyler County Fairgrounds, "Duke," Fr. Rector's English Setter, made a hit. Before the 500 spectators and sportsmer present, Duke retrieved a lost bird from Bad Indian Marsh. The pheasant was already given up as lost by the marksmen. For this unexpected feat "beyond the call of duty" (or something), Fr. Claude's bird was singled out as the outstanding retriever of the day.

SNOWSCAPES

After a few letdowns, the real winter weather finally came to the Seneca region. Snow, snow and more snow covered the ground, thus providing for the regular winter sports. Tobogganing, with its whirls and spills attracts the greatest number of enthusiasts. Heads were bumped, even bones cracked, but all seemed to be worth the price for one speedy whirl on the hill.

For some of the experts, such as Cece and Nixon, winter provided a chance to show off their skiing skill. Novices to this sport came even from the ranks of the Fathers to provide merriment to the onlookers as they made their fearful way down the inclines.

Unfortunately, the pond could not be kept in a very good condition, hence very little skating could be done. Yet, with what little time spent on the ice one can see a good future in hockey from the "Pros" we have in our midst.

Cascaders Nip Savona JV's

Still smarting from a recent defeat, a completely reorganized Padua squad met the Savona Junior Varsity on the Watkins High court. Scoring on the tip-off, the Cascaders went on to lead their opponents for most of the game with a sizeable lead. The score at half-time was P.H.S.—25, Savona—14.

The second half proved to be a better one for the visitors. Spurred on by Tobias, they almost managed to close the gap, but couldn't overcome Padua's early lead. At the final gun the Padua basketeers left the floor with a "sweet revenge" gained by with a "sweet revenge victory" gained by the narrow margin of one point: 41-40.

Aug led the scoring with 19 markers, almost half of the total points. Spencer followed with 11. High man for Savona was Tobias with 13 points.

SPURTS IN SPORTS

George Mikan, Mr. Basketball, would do well to keep on practicing daily. It seems that he has a rival here at Padua in the person of "Nippy" Piwinski. I wonder if George could ever duplicate that famous shot that "Nip" used during one of the "JV" games?

All the regulars be on your toes! Why? Newton has his eye on being one of the "foist" string. 'Nuff sed.

"All State" Grochowski is living up to his name with those fancy left-handed shots. Watch him blush when you tell him how important he was in the Savona "JV" game.

I wonder why the "JV's" can't seem to click in their basketball games now? Could it be that they are still saddened by the absence of their manager Trzaskawka?

Will all those interested contribute something to the "Glasses for Szczepanski Fund"? As a "ref," he'd make a better water-boy (Anvway, that's what the "JV's" think).

Who's the high "scorer" (in personals) on the Varsity? Don't blush Joe.

If Spencer seems to be rather shaken up lately, it could be that "powerful" number 8 from the Lourdes team must have had something to do with it. That "giant" really banged Spence to stop him from making a goal.

Anyone knowing a good salvage company please report to the Athletic Director. We have a great amount of lead in LaValley's feet that we can trade for something useful in the athletic line. Off your feet boy, or Trzaskawka will take over the center spot!

There may be a great rebuilding period in the vicinity gymnasiums as long as "Fat" Eaton continues to cover up half of the court. You try to go thru him sometime!

Dwyer, will you please stop confusing those referees? You can't get the ball every time, only when the opposite side knocks the ball out of bounds.

STUDENT QUOTES

The minor mortifications which most people impose upon themselves during the Holy Season of Lent are generally of a negative nature—to give up smoking, candy, dances, movies, etc. The students at Padua, however, offer a varied solution to the Christian problem: WHAT WILL I DO DURING LENT?

GEORGE SOBECK: "We easily overlook the sacrifices and the efforts of the Fathers who are trying to teach us not only the sciences, but also the Christian art of living. Hence, during Lent, I shall show them more respect and remember them more often in my prayers."

FRANK CZAJKOWSKI: "The world is in a terrible mess today, hence I shall direct all my small mortifications and prayers toward a just peace in the world, and the conversion of Russia. In this intention I shall make a novena to the Virgin Mary, the Mother of mankind."

JOHN DWYER: "I intend to devote more time to serious study and pay more attention in class. In addition, I shall say a Rosary privately each day."

JOE TRELLA: "During Lent I shall control my temper and refuse to complain and criticize the things which I do not like."

FRANK ZYGMONTOWICZ: "He who prays well, lives well. For this reason I shall cultivate a love for the greatest prayer of all, the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. I shall pay special attention to the Mass so as to gain the most from it."

RICH. CHODNICKI: "Mary suffered much while witnessing the Passion of her beloved Son. I intend to say the Rosary devoutly every day in order to pay my debt to her for the things she suffered because of my sins."

HAROLD NIXON: "During Lent I shall make the Stations of the Cross daily because God walked the Way of the Cross to save me from hell. I am going to show Him my appreciation."

E. LAGONEGRO: "I shall make a special effort to receive Holy Communion every day so as to show my love for God."

L. RYS: "I shall try to stay in the state of grace always."

E. LEWANDOWSKI: "I shall be kind to all my friends and show charity to all."

LIBRARY MUSINGS

You really can't keep a fire going without a good supply of fuel; similarly, you can't expect to keep the fires of inspiration, received during retreat conferences, to keep on burning, without the fuel of good reading. The library played an important part in the first retreat made by the students of Padua. Although there are not too many books of a spiritual nature, their lack was supplied by a great number of pamphlets, treating on pertinent topics. Most of these are from the collection of Father George. The library staff takes this occasion to thank Father for his fine cooperation.

Scientists and their contributions to the field of science are the topics of research now on the agenda of the Paduans. Jenner, Pasteur and many other great scientists are keeping us busy in connection with Fr. Emmanuel's latest assignment. Look at the work they had to go thru in order to become famous and then think of this when you don't feel very ambitious in "ye olde" study hall.

When the student librarian, Conrad Szczepanski, puts in the finishing touches, the files will be in shape, and this will enable everyone to do his library assignments more easily and without too much trouble.

ments more easily and without too much trouble.

The librarians must be complimented on their ability to keep order in the library. Of course this is due also to the cooperation of the student body. Keep it up boys!

BOOK NOTES

Let the Hurricane Roar by Rose Wilder Lane, (Longmans, 1948, 152 p.)

They say that good things come in small packages. Here we have a good example of this in the line of books. This is a gripping story of a young couple, Charles and Caroline, who begin their married life by going West, with all their worldly possessions contained in a wagon drawn by two oxen. From their sod hut, they venture out to tame the land, but the forces of nature, especially a grasshopper plague overpower them.

When Charles leaves home to work at the settlement, then the fun begins. A raging storm, a pack of hungry wolves, herds of wild cattle keep Caroline busy watching over her child until her husband returns. Put yourself in her place and you can imagine the thrills that are packed in those pages. For a short, but thrilling session of light reading, don't forget to put this book on your list tures such as hot and cold water, a sink, and a double gas cock. In addition, Brother Felix is constructing three sixteen-foot tables, each accommodating twelve students.

The lab will have a built-in movie screen, making it convenient to show educational films at any time.

A series of Science Charts, by Davis and Smith has also been purchased.

Rector Honored By Faculty, Students, Guests

We still don't know who enjoyed Feb. 15th more, Father Rector or we. Many thanks, Fr. Claude and may God reward you with many happy returns of such a "beautiful" day!
