MARCH 1952

FRESHMEN CHOOSE MOTTO AND EMBLEM

The meeting was called to order by Fr. George with a prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. At once, the president, Robert Malina, called for business to be discussed.

First on the agenda was a report from the committee which made recommendations on how funds could be raised for new furnishings in the freshman recreation room. It was decided to collect fifty cents from each member of the class for the purpose.

Next, the new freshman students, Jim O'Rourke and Alexander Maksymowicz were introduced to the class.

After a long discussion and vote, the class chose their class motto and emblem. The motto, "St. Joseph, Our Leader and Our Defender," was unanimously agreed upon. The emblem was given to E. Sobek for the purpose of improving it. The lily was chosen as the class flower. A committee was chosen to compile a list of various holy and religious songs.

Another meeting was scheduled for sometime before March to select a special devotion in honor of St. Joseph, the class patron.

The meeting was adjourned with a prayer.

The meeting was opened with a prayer led by the president, Jos. Niezgoda. After the prayer, the secretary, Norb Wisniewski, read the minutes of the last meeting, which were accepted as read.

The main topic of discussion was the selection of a class patron. The Saints that were most popular with the class were St. Martin Porres and St. Dominic Savio. After a short discussion and vote, Dominic Savio was chosen as the class patron.

Fr. Henry, class moderator, then gave the class a short biographical sketch of St. Dominic Savio and encouraged the students to imitate his life.

The meeting was then adjourned with a prayer.

Father Victor

Inspiring Retreat, 13-Hr. Devotions Held

Padua had its third annual four day retreat, beginning in the evening of Feb. 3 and ending Feb. 6. The retreat master was Fr. Victor Krzywonos, O.F.M. of the Ben Avon, Pittsburgh, monastery.

The days were spent in silence and meditation. Four conferences a day were given on topics of vital interest to every student. The students especially appreciated the "question-box" conference.

When the retreat was over, the students showed their appreciation to Fr. Victor by presenting him with a spiritual bouquet. The Retreat-master thanked the boys for their cooperation and hoped that they benefited from the Spiritual exercises.

On the following morning, Feb. 7, the Blessed Sacrament was exposed for veneration to begin the Thirteen-Hour Devotions. Students took turns adoring the Hidden God continuously throughout the day. The devotions were concluded in the evening with a procession and Solemn Benediction. Fr. Emil preached a sermon on the Eucharist.

PADUANS TAKE EXAMS; NEW HONOR ROLL ANNOUNCED

Father Rector Celebrates Nameday

Friday, February 15, was Father Rector's feast day. The day began with Mass celebrated by Fr. Claude. After the services the student body greeted the Rector in the refectory with a burst of song. A representative of the student body then handed him a spiritual bouquet.

The morning was spent ice skating and skiing. Fr. Rector, accompanied by most of the Fathers of the faculty, took the boys to the frozen Punch Bowl Lake. Sides were chosen and a two-hour hockey game got under way. There were no serious casualties except for a broken hockey stick.

After a delicious dinner in which Bros. Gabriel and Leonard outdid themselves, some took to the woods while others made the walls of the "matchbox" gym resound with basketball games.

In the evening the whole student body journeyed to Montour Falls to cheer the varsity and JVs in their victories over Lake-mont Academy.

School Gets New Professor

The students were more than mildly curious about who would be the new professor and what he would be like. Fr. Martinian had left in the last week of February to take up new duties as assistant at the parish in Green Bay, Wis. Fr. Terrence Pinkowski journeyed from his post in Toledo, Ohio, to replace Fr. Martinian.

Father Terrence comes from Nanticoke, Pa. He had been helping out in various parishes throughout Ohio and Michigan. Besides being an avid reader of books and a lover of "long-haired" music, Father Terrence also paints.

Father teaches English, Polish and Physical Education, is co-moderator of the school paper and manager of the students' PX.

January might have been a cold month outside, but few noticed the temperature from January 29 to Feb. 1. Students were feverishly reviewing and cramming for the semester exams. Days of reckoning! The result was a few beaming faces, quite a few relieved expressions and, unfortunately, some dejected spectacles. The Juniors had an extra burden to carry since they also took Regents Examinations in many subjects.

The biggest surprise of the first semester's honor roll is that Joseph Malina, a Junior from Brooklyn, is in first place with a 99.1 average. It is the first 99 average ever to be attained by a student at Padua.

The honor roll (a large new one now publicly displayed in the school's entrance) reads as follows:

Brother Felix Dies

On Monday, March 3, at 2:00 in the morning, Brother Felix Kuczek, O.F.M. died in St. Vincent's Hospital in Green Bay, Wis. The students remember him well, since up to but a few months ago he was the carpenter for the school and monastery. As representatives of the school and the monastery, Brothers Eusebius and Fidelis attended the funeral services in Pulaski, Wis., where the community's cemetery is located.

Potential Ashes In The News

The sprinkling of ashes introduced the season of Lent. The ashes were to remind us that someday we too will turn into the elements which make us and will remain a mere handful of dust and ashes.

As you read this issue of the PADUAN should it not occur to you that the events recorded will become, as time goes on, mere specks on the face of history. The individuals whose names are mentioned here and there in the paper will someday leave behind on this earth only a memory—and a handful of dust and ashes.

We ought not glory in either our talents, or achievements or the figure we cut amongst our fellow men. There are so many things we can't take with us when His Hand beckons. It is certainly wise to work for and hold what can help us after our bodies take their first step in becoming ashes. God and heaven must always be our goal.

You Still Want To Be An Engineer?

March has been designated as the month of vocations and in particular Religious and priestly vocations. This means that during this month we ought to pray more frequently for God's guidance in choosing our future work.

God has given each one of us a special job to do here on earth. This is known as a vocation or a call to duty. We should not expect a physical voice to tell us what our vocation is. We must decide for ourselves, using the reason God gave us and heeding the indications he places in our hearts and about us.

We can choose to remain in the world, to marry or remain single. We can choose to more closely follow Christ in His Priesthood or the Religious life. Both states are needed in God's plan, the lay and clerical. It is for us to decide wherein lies our individual future and once we decide that, how we can sanctify ourselves in it.

Do you have a vocation for the priesthood, for the Religious life? If you have a sincere desire to spread God's glory and have an average intelligence and good health, you can seriously consider that perhaps God has the priesthood in mind for you. To sacrifice one's life unselfishly for God and His people is what would be expected of you. It's a great vocation, the greatest in the world. Is it yours? Think, pray and get the advice of your Director.

Saints For Sinners To Follow

On the top of the list of important saints this month is St. Joseph. According to tradition he died in the arms of the Blessed Mother and the Savior Himself. Who could ask for more in the hour of death! That is why St. Joseph is invoked as the patron of a happy death. But prayer is not enough. We must imitate his manly virtues and his burning love for God. Since St. Joseph is also the Protector of the Universal Church, we ought to beg his intercession for the many persecuted people behind the iron curtain.

And we're telling you that there will be wearing of the green come St. Patrick's Day. There will be no parade except to classes, but those whose ancestors came from the Emerald Isle will have their day. Why not try to imitate his example and prepare ourselves well, so that in the future we will be able to spread the true Faith with the same zeal.

And don't forget that on March 25 we celebrate the event which made the Blessed Virgin the Mother of God!

SHOUTS and WHISPERS

The Brave Freshmen

Feb. 10th, Sunday, was a peaceful day until it was decided that the freshmen should build a fort of snow on the athletic field. They would defend their work of art against the onslaughts of the sophomores and juniors.

"It isn't fair," they said, "we the outnumbered." So, they were given R. Eskra and R. DeSocio to make up for the deficiency.

After enough ammunition had been manufactured, the signal was given and the attack was on.

You guessed it, within 2 minutes bat, the upper classmen were over the top and the freshmen protruded from the snow—feet first. Eskra was in the deepest.

This was bad! The youngsters must be given another chance. The signal was once more given and again within 2 minutes the freshmen protruded from the snow—feet first. And Eskra was in the deepest.

The snowball fight had to be discontinued for it was getting too monotonous.

Skaters Away!

Those who had skates began to despair. They wondered if they would ever use them. Then Fr. Emil investigated White Lake (about 2 miles from the school) and found it excellent for skating. Then, what spills . . . what thrills . . . what fun!

The good part about it was that Fathers Rector, Henry, Sylvester, Emil and Bruno were in on the spills, thrills and fun.

A New Master

Fr. Henry journeyed to Chicago last month where he received his Master of Arts Degree. He majored in Polish at DePaul University. Congratulations, Fr. Henry!

Get Well Quick

Fr. Methodius, who showed the freshmen a wonderful time when they visited his saw-mill with Fr. George, had to go to the hospital for a cardiac check-up. We hope you get well quickly, Father!

Stash and Jurek

Two of the D.P. families, after having spent a year at the school, departed.

We shall miss especially Jurek, 5 years old, and Stash, 4 years old. Before they left, they crawled into the large bird cage and liberated four canaries. The game warden is still looking for them . . . the canaries.

Likewise, the swimming pool had been a nice place to swim in until Jurek and Stash decided to do something about it. They threw a whole box of soap and a carton of clothes pins into the water—just to see if they would float.

Now that they are gone, Brother Zeke found his large wrench among their toys. Oh, oh . . . wrench plus Jurek and Stash equals dead canaries.

Greetings To Brother Casey

Brother Casimir observed his feast day March 4th and we can't forget the good Brother who never forgets us . . . especially when we are ill. Happy Feast Day, Brother!

New Faces

Three new students have enrolled at Padua, at the half: James O'Rourke, Dana Griffin, both of Elmira and Alexander Maksymowicz, of England. Alexander, who studied at a school there for several years brings with himself an honest-to-goodness English accent and an English flavor. Now the boys from Brooklyn will have competition when it comes to accents.

We Are Greatful . . .

. . . to the Atonement Friars of Montour Falls for the use of their gymnasium. God bless them.

Padua Rolls Over Savona
The Cascaders went on to win their third consecutive game by overwhelming the Savona cagers, 52-30. Having a little trouble in getting started, the Cascaders finally got the ball moving in the second and third quarters to put them far ahead to take the game without much trouble. The fourth quarter was a low scoring one but Savona was too far behind to capitalize on it. High for Padua and the game was Czajkowski with 13. High for Savona was McGuire with 9.

Mighty Midgets Suffer Defeat
It was tough luck for the Midgets. They were heading for a five win-no loss standing when the blow came. The game with Watkins toppled the pedestal and handed the Midgets their first defeat. The starting line-up for the game was: Bernard Petrick and Conrad Olszewski, forwards; Robert Malina and John Uss, guards; Leon Trzaskawka, center. The Midgets sparked into a fourth quarter rally and hopes ran high. Watkins, however, soon pulled ahead and stayed there until the end. The final score: Padua Midgets 38, Watkins 50. Bernard Petrick

Padua Trounced By Odessa

The thought of Christmas holidays must have been too much for the Cascaders and they took a 58-43 thrashing at the hands of Odessa.

At the end of the first half the game promised to be a close affair. The score was 25-22 with Padua trailing. The second half proved decisive and the Paduans couldn't keep pace with the sharpshooting Odessa team. Zygmuntowicz was high for Padua with 18 points, while Cole was high for Odessa with 27.

Padua Loses in Final Quarter

The first team the Cascaders played after their holiday vacation was Odessa. Wanting to avenge a previous loss suffered at the hands of Odessa, the Cascaders jumped into an early lead and held it throughout the first quarter by a 11-10 score. At halftime Odessa led 18-17. In the third quarter both teams kept at an even pace and the end of the quarter found Odessa still leading by only one point, 31-30. However, in the final quarter, Odessa scored nineteen points to Padua's eleven to win the game 50-41. Eskra was high for Padua with 15 points. Cole was high for Odessa with 11.

Padua Wins Over Lakemont

The Cascaders played a splendid game on the feastday of the Rector and upset a highly rated Lakemont quintet. High for Padua was Eskra with 17. Albright and Fraser led the scoring for Lakemont with 12 points each.

CORNING GLASS WORKS ENTERTAINS PADUANS

The Paduans had a pleasant evening on Feb. 11, when Mr. Art Rutan and Mr. L. Ledin of the Corning Glass Works visited the school. They brought with them a film picturing the various methods of producing glassware. Although the Paduans had personally visited the Corning Glass exhibit, they did not see how articles such as coffee pots, pyrex glass, pressware and the like were made.

After an interesting talk by Mr. Rutan, in which he explained the principal divisions of the glass industry, the film began. It lasted for twenty minutes and was in beautiful technicolor. Actual scenes at the glass-works were shown dealing with the methods of shaping glass. The first method demonstrated was that of blowing the glass into the shape desired; the second method was the press method whereby molten glass is poured into molds and formed under great pressure.

After the film, Mr. Rutan asked if anyone thought he had a vocation for glass-blowing. No one volunteered. Father Claude then thanked the men for their kindness in lecturing to the student body and showing the film.

Looks & Outlooks of Winter

"How are you spending your winter here at school?" "What do you do during your free time?" These are the questions that are frequently being asked by one student of the other. Answers vary.

Richard Eskra: "Most of my free time is taken up with basketball practice. I also go ice skating and skiing. I'm not the best ice skater or skier, but I'm learning, the hard way!"

Joe McDonnell: "Since I don't have to practice basketball, I spend most of my time skiing. It's a lot of fun, more than I ever expected it to be."

Mat Yurko: "Recently, I haven't had much time for anything but basketball, but in my free time give me a pair of ice skates, a hockey club and a puck and I'll be happy for a long time."

Norb Wisniewski and Bucky

Paul O'Neil: "I like to spend my free time taking strolls in the woods. It's more fun than you think it is. We have snowball fights and enjoy the beautiful scenery."

Joey Trella: "I am pretty happy as long as I have snow and a pair of skis under me. So far I have no complaints because the snow is fine and I have my own good skis."

Ed McDonnell: "Before I used to spend all my time skiing, but since I started to go ice skating at the Punch Bowl, I always go back. Someday I hope to be half as good as Dick Button, wait and see!"

Henry Cece and Richard Chodnicki: "Besides doing some skating and skiing, we spend some of our time in archery. Even though it is a little cold out, it's a lot of fun to be out in the snow playing 'Robin Hood'."

Cascaders Edge Addison

The Cascaders won this one but not without difficulty. It was a see-saw battle all the way. The game was brought to a breath-taking climax when, with the score tied and but four seconds remaining, Joe Malina scored on two free throws to win the game, 65-63. Eskra was high with 27 for Padua; Hess was high man for Addison with 26.

COMICS ARE EASIER

Yes, comics are easier to read than many a piece of Catholic literature, but is that good? Books can greatly influence our lives. They are gateways of knowledge through which facts and opinions are revealed to us. Reading should broaden one's mind and increase one's vocabulary. How much of this do comics do?

With the turmoil throughout the world today, it is very important that we read Catholic literature with a little more enthusiasm. This year the Catholic Press Association of the United States had adopted the motto: "Read the Catholic Press; Millions Wish They Could." There is no proof needed to show that millions certainly do wish they could.

The Catholic Press gives factual information, straight from the shoulder. It was organized for that very reason. While the secular press often colors the facts to suit the predominant opinion or policy of those to whom it must pay homage, the Catholic

Padua Romps Over Savona

The Cascaders very easily went on to win their eleventh and last game of a 16 game season.

After having built up a good 39-8 lead at halftime, the Cascaders started the second half with a full sophomore quintet. This did not slacken the scoring by much for the final score read 67-20. Eskra was once again high for the Cascaders with 20. McGuire was high for Savona with eight.

Press feels it has no fear of reprisals except only those God can inflict. That consideration alone is sufficient to make the Catholic Press want to be truthful at all times.

Does the home from which you come have at least one Catholic periodical coming into it? If not, your home is missing a very important item. Speaking of the Catholic Press, Pope Pius XII has said: "You are my voice. I do not say that you make my voice heard but that you are my voice itself. Few indeed would be the number of children of the common Father who could learn my wishes and thoughts without the aid of the Catholic Press."

So let's get on the ball. We ought to learn more about our destiny and that of the world than what Donald Duck or Buck Rogers can teach us. Choose the Catholic pieces of literature you like best and be its steady reader.
