MARCH 1958

SNOWBOUND...

It was past midnight, February 15, 1958. The newly organized Bayonne Chapter of the Padua Ladies' Auxiliary had just boarded a chartered bus — destination Watkins Glen, New York. The engine purred to depict the contentment of the riders as well as its own eagerness to begin the 265 mile trip. A sudden hesitation had been felt as gears were shifted, and then the long-planned excursion party was under way. Hours passed quickly and the dawn of the new day found the bus in Montour Falls, just a few miles outside of "the end of the line". Hungry stomachs were quickly satiated with hearty breakfasts served in typical Finger Lakes fashion. Contentment reigned again as the party once more boarded the bus to complete the final route of the journey. In what had seemed as no more than a twinkling, the bus came to an abrupt and relieving halt. Here they were, at Padua. For most of them it was a novel experience, for the nearest they had ever been to the place was the viewing side of the school bulletin. But, it didn't take long for them to feel quite at home. Everything possible was done to make their stay a most enjoyable one.

The first day acquainted them with the school buildings, faculty, & students, who put on a re-showing of a previously staged play entitled "Time Limit". Under the direction of Father Terrence Pinkowski the members of the cast put over a performance in a laudable manner. After its completion a tired group of visitors headed for the Jefferson Hotel in town where they recuperated from their first hectic day. Another half day was in store for them, but then it started, first softly, lightly, and then faster, heavier. Down it came, those little, fleecy, delicate patterns of white silk snow — mother nature's simple and yet complex procedure of enveloping her world in a smooth coat of most precious ermine. Down and down, more and more, steadily it fell.

The first rays of light heralded the advent of a new day, a different day. A landscape once dead under winter's clutch was now alive, vibrating with the reflections of thousands of tiny mirrors, and more was on its way. Such a world greeted the tired and dazed eyes of the risers whose thoughts had, for the first time since their arrival, dwindled on sights of their afternoon trip back home. But, the day also brought news of a temporary cancellation of departure. "What would we do", thought many. "Where would we stay?" When the ladies had been informed that the school cottage was at their disposal, these thoughts were quickly surrendered. After lunch that day, their new living quarters were supplied with a few more beds, plus other necessities. The daughters who had accompanied their mothers had a wonderful time tabogganing that afternoon with some of the students. Besides a few frozen noses and maybe cold feet, the afternoon had proved itself a memorable one. That evening along with the student body they enjoyed seeing the Benny Goodman Story which was Padua's movie for the week. Once more that evening heavy heads met light pillows, and sleep came easily. Outside, the wind played its age-old symphony. The snowfall continued.

The following day, "When will we leave?" nudged at everyone's brain. Still there was no relief in sight. But, there were things to do. Some of the mothers pitched in with some of the cleaning chores around the school, some, with mending of various articles. The students had their regular classes, and to the surprise of the professors conducting the senior classes, a number of new pupils had been added, a few mothers and their daughters. The day passed as quickly as the others. The evening brought with itself a lecture by Mr. and Mrs. Barton of Montour Falls, which concerned their travels through South America. Another day had come to an end with fresh hopes of returning home in the minds of many. But there were a few who wished this unexpected winter vacation would continue. The hopes of the former finally became a reality. Tuesday, February 18 saw the end of their visit. Once more the bus was boarded and heartfelt farewells having been made, the return trip began. That evening after many

ALUMNI VISIT PADUA

Old acquaintances were renewed when some Alumni visited their high school alma mater. The first to be welcomed were Bob Killigrew, Tom Kelly, and John Asiello, all of whom live in the vicinity. During their stay they met a few of the fathers, brothers, and students, and enjoyed some interscholastic soccer and basketball games.

Next to visit were Leonard Dmuchowski and four of his friends. Since all were quite adept at basketball, the varsity was given a hearty scrimmage.

The most recent visitors were Ed Opiola, who is attending St. John's University; Ted Iwachow, who is studying insurance; and Tom Tulko and Bob Malina, both of whom are attending Manhattan College. We hope all had an enjoyable stay.

CARD PARTY

A group of ladies from Watkins Glen had gathered in the school chapel. The Watkins Glen Ladies' Auxiliary was finally a reality. But that was a few hours ago. Now, all the members had convened in the school refectory, for a card party and raffle were planned for the evening. Some of the fathers and a few seniors also joined the fun. Two seniors lucky enough to win were: Zbigniew Koniniec and Andrew Zarski. Fr. Terrence, our jovial English prof, played a game called Hell's Bridge (no connection), and enjoyed it immensely. The prizes ranged from a deck of cards to a steam iron. Afterwards, a tasty snack was served. A delightful evening came to an end, when yawns and stretching arms indicated that it was getting late. The affair turned out to be a perfect success. The proceeds were handed over to Father Claude.

IN MEMORIAM

The Faculty and Students extend their condolences to Stanley Grysko at the death of his grandfather, and to Stanley Zagraniczny at the death of his grandmother.

A HAPPY EASTER TO ALL

FROM THE FACULTY, BROTHERS AND STUDENT BODY

LENT

The Mardi Gras, held in New Orleans, is the last of the several fulfilled days before Lent. This carnival season begins January 6. It is a time of dances, funny costumes, merry making, and the crowning of the King of the Mardi Gras. This celebration is known the world over and many people come to join in the festivities.

We are aware of what these festivities lead to, that is why the church prescribes the first day of the Lenten season, Ash Wednesday, to follow so closely. It is appropriate for us, who have donned the gay costumes and had fun, to stop and reminisce about Our Savior. For He is the one who has made it possible for us to be happy and jovial. It is not asking too much to don the sack cloth and ashes for Him who opened the gates of heaven for us all.

Is it asking too much for us to repent for four weeks, to contemplate on Christ's sufferings during the Holy Week, especially when He for the love of us was denied, tormented, and crucified?

"Did He say a word against those who tortured Him?" While we, just puny human beings, complain and become dejected when asked to sacrifice a little during the Holy Season.

Nobody likes to make sacrifices when he doesn't have to, but during this season, if we really love Him who died to redeem us, we should gladly show our appreciation of His love for us by thanking Him for opening the gates of heaven for us. This is the real and true spirit of Lent.

SPRING

The night slowly ebbs away. The first violet hues of a new dawn blend in with the dark serenity of a forest. Gradually the violet turns to pink, from pink to orange, and then with all its glory the morning sun breaks through the horizon's shield. Another day is at hand, but its first sounds and smells tell that it is a day unlike those which preceded it. A robin back from its winter voyage settles on a soft patch of earth and eagerly begins a search for food. A gentle breeze rushes through a brown meadow awaking nature from her long wintry slumber. Its voice seems to bear a tone of expectancy. Listen! "Spring is on its way; she has finally conquered winter." The ants, long since gone to their subterranean cities, rush to the earth's face to see if it is true. The birds of the land spread the word quickly. Then in all her glory the new young Spring enters her domain. Daintily she waves her wand, and all nature responds. Once more the earth throbs with life.

Not only is it a physical life, but a spiritual one as well. For it was on a Spring day that Our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, suffered and died for all mankind. This is the last and true sign of Spring. Our Lord's Love in His Redemption, a love which we must return to so Infinite and Good a Being. So when that day arrives, remember Him without Whom the beauties of Spring could never be.

ROVING REPORTER

Recently the Paduan's roving reporter inquired, "What would you do if you were Rector for a day?" The answers he received make for interesting reading.

Mark Eleniewski: "I'd make sure I was Rector the next day."

Jerry Nowotarski: "I'd get a recording of the word 'Nope' and play it for the senior class president."

Frank Uss: "I'd put new light fixtures in all the rooms, study hall, and chapel."

Walter Wnukowski: "I would give town permission."

Freshman Hall Prefects: "We'd install TV cameras in each room, so we could spy on them."

Steve Kurpiel: "Don't know."

CLASS MEETINGS

On Wednesday, February 5, 1958, the sixth in this year's series of class meetings took place. The freshmen held, as part of their meeting, a discussion on the topic "Classroom Apparel". A comparison was made between clothing worn in public schools and that worn here on the Padua campus.

The "snow shoveling" project was the main point of interest at the junior class meeting. President John Trela drew up a working list dividing the class into groups so as to distribute the work. However, it is still being discussed. Thank heavens the snow finally melted. One never knows when the juniors would have gotten around to the task assigned.

The sophomores held a party in place of their formal meeting, an unusual affair for them.

The senior class meeting was cancelled.

SNOWBOUND ...

slow miles of travel, the weary bus with its occupants came to the final end of a four day holiday. But we at Padua and those who visited will surely never forget the day that they were "snowbound".

PADUA'S TOP TEN

The prayers of all those who have asked, "Why don't we have the top ten pop songs here at Padua in the school paper?", have been answered. Here they are:

Title	Artist
1. Oh, Julie	The Crescendos
2. Maybe	The Chantels
3. Sweet Little Sixteen—	—Chuck Berry
4. Dede Dinah	Franky Avilon
5. Get a Job	The Silhouettes
6. Good Golly, Miss Molly—	—Little Richard
7. Short Shorts	The Royal Teens
8. I Love You for Sentimental Reason,	Sam Cooke
9. You Are My Destiny,	Paul Anka
10. Been So Long	The Pastels

SHOUTS and WHISPERS

"Was Wilusz hoping for more snow?"

"Marcheski is all right, two right!"

"Batory, did you find your worm?"

"Who's the new shoe-shine boy, Mu?"

"What senior was a trail blazer to the cottage?"

"Why didn't the juniors do such a great job on the walks?"

"Any 'square' for dancing?"

"Overheard during the 9:30 recess, 'Macie'?"

Area TV Personality Gives Lecture

Witty, informative, congenial, entertaining, humorous, and very natural. These are only a few of the attributes which indicate the broad personality of Mr. Ralph Carroll. Who is he? Well, all of us here at Padua can tell you he's the moderator of a local television station presentation entitled "Carroll's Caravan". The station is channel 12 in Binghamton, the time is 6:00 P. M., the format informal, but the show is a very interesting one conducted by an equally interesting personality. Mr. Carroll interviews people from various corners of the world, who tell of their unusual occupations or hobbies.

On January 19 we here at Padua were informed that a lecture would be given that evening in the school gymnasium. It sounded all right, but, well, lectures are usually not too interesting. Still in all the student body had convened in the designated building and cheerfully welcomed Mr. Carroll. To our amazement, after he had uttered only a few sentences, we realized that here was someone different, someone who could hold you spell-bound. Before long, we had found that he was not a native of this country, but that he had been born in South Africa, had been educated in London, England, and at St. Xavier's College in India. (Here already were two topics which could make lengthy and interesting conversation.) One of his most famous undertakings was the establishment of the first Catholic newspaper in Africa. This again opened our ears. But this introductory phase of the talk had to end, or else his main purpose for having come would have been lost.

Every year Mr. Carroll and his charming wife take a trip to some interesting region of North America. Reel after reel of film is busily used to record the beauties and accomplishments of these places. Then upon their return, many hours are spent in developing, editing, and adding musical sound tracks to these remembrances of their journey. This, by the way, has been going on for sixteen years, during which time Mr. Carroll has accumulated quite a travelogue library. The lecture that evening concerned itself with his trip to the Grand Canyon, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego. A special word should also be given about Disneyland, where he acquired some interesting pictures. From beginning to end he kept his audience at his fingertips, and to our disappointment his final words brought to a close a most pleasant and enjoyable evening. Come again, Mr. Carroll!

FATHER CLAUDE'S FEASTDAY

A feast day comes but once a year, so naturally when it does arrive, it's greeted with much jubilation. Such was the case with Father Claude's feastday, which was celebrated on Saturday, February 15. A free day was in order, and along with it went town permission for the students, a splendid banquet, and a repeat performance of the play "Time Limit." After dinner the student body presented Fr. Claude with a generous pecuniary donation plus a spiritual bouquet. The entire day from sunrise to sunset rang with good wishes extended to Fr. Claude by all. The chapel was frequented to ask Our Lord to help him in his work.

Fr. Andrew Meronek

RETREAT

Following the semestral examinations, the students of Padua looked forward to the annual mid-year retreat which lasted one and a half days. Father Andrew Meronek, O.F.M., Padua's vocational director, conducted as retreat master. With an invocation to the Holy Spirit, the retreat officially started. "Where do I stand with God?" was the theme of the first conference. Certain pointers were given as aids in answering this question. Fr. Andrew told us to resolve to model our lives after that of Christ by strengthening our virtues and good qualities, and to keep in mind that we will be rewarded if we try to do our best. During the evening conferences Fr. Andrew explained what sin is, and how we can avoid the occasions of sin in order to attain our eternal goal, heaven. Between conferences, prayer, meditation, and spiritual reading were the rule. Silence, of course, was observed from beginning to end. At the last conference questions on faith and morals submitted by the students were answered.

At the close of the retreat, retreat services were held which ended with the imparting of the Apostolic Blessing. The perfect start of a new semester was completed.

FRESHMAN CORRIDOR REPAINTED

After a long delay the able hands of Edward Brozek and Chester Szanowski completed the freshman corridor. At the beginning of the year many seniors volunteered to repaint the rooms and corridors, but after Thanksgiving everyone lost his initiative. All together twelve rooms were repainted by many skilled workers, but the

THESPIANS THRILL AUDIENCE

A sharp report broke the calm of the fascinated audience as Kim, the Korean Commander, prevented the American prisoners of war from harming the informer, Major Harry Cargill, as played by Regis Kobus. This, "the first flashback", informed the guests of the main theme of the plot.

Colonel William Edwards ably performed by Louis Wilusz has for his duty the defense of the traitor Cargill. The defense of the traitor seems futile until Lt. Miller (Mark Eleniewski) reveals that he was the cause of the death of Major General Connors' son, Captain Connors Jr. (Joseph Bajdo). Chester Szanowski as Major General Connors put on a fine performance when he heard that his supposedly heroic son was an informer. Major Cargill has a chance when it is learned that he "went over" to prevent the killing of the rest of the American soldiers by Kim.

Other Padua thespians in supporting roles were: Walter Szczepaniak, Thomas Mullaney, John Trela, Frederick Marek, Terrence Mark, Stanley Duchak, Joseph Szczesniakowski, Albert Snopek, Thomas Janildo, Joseph Dombkowski, Joseph Marciniak, Richard Gill, and to the surprise of Mrs. Helen Tulko, her youngest son, Johnny, also took part in the flashbacks.

Father Terrence, the director of the splendid production, made the parts come to life by encouraging his students to use their imagination, to feel that they are that person portrayed in real life. An important lesson learned by his performers was that a part of acting is to learn not to act. Fr. Terrence believes, as do most educators, that the study of drama is an invaluable factor in the educational process, that it develops personality and social qualities of the utmost value. If education is to lead the student, develop all of him and present him as a factor in this complex social life, a study of the drama cannot be entirely neglected.

easiest job, the corridor, was left uncompleted. To get some variety, most of the rooms were painted in different hues, and the combinations were so arranged that no more than two rooms had the same contrast. Now that the "bug" has bitten again, the infirmary is next for repainting.

THE 1958 SIQUAERIS

Work on the 1958 yearbook has finally gotten into high gear under the able management of co-editors Gerald Nowotarski and Philip Tereskiewicz, and the experienced and wonderful aid of Fr. Emil. So far they have done a creditable job of filing and typing the ad section, which totals the largest sum of money solicited for this publication since the start of its short history.

Plans for the layouts are being put on paper, and thanks to Walter Szczepaniak, the task of calculating the layouts will be less of a burden. The pictures taken by John Balsiewicz and Leonard Sroka show their painstaking effort to introduce our school to all strangers.

When asked about the yearbook, the co-editors replied that the 1958 Siquaeris is on its way to great recognition at the next Rochester convention of school publications.

A lot of midnight oil is yet to be burned before its completion, but it's worth it. We, the editors of the Paduan, know they will succeed in their goal, the publishing of one of the best, if not the best, issue to come off the presses in a long time.

LISTEN AND LEARN

"Father, I'll purchase one." "Father, put my name down also", "and me too, Father." Such enthusiasm warmed the heart of Fr. Henry Naparla, Padua's excellent language professor, when to his surprise, order after order came in for what seems to be a growing trend at school.

It all began a few short weeks ago with one record entitled "Listen and Learn Polish." Since then, almost everyone, including some professors, have joined the band wagon. But, these are not limited to just Polish. They incorporate Greek, Italian, French, Spanish, German, and many other foreign tongues. Each 33 1/3 rpm platter contains one language, and is sold for an amazingly low price. They don't guarantee that you'll be a fluent speaker in no time, but they do acquaint you with each language. If desired, larger courses, having 40 lessons which give a better background, are available. Which ever you prefer doesn't matter, for Fr. Henry, a literateur of language study, is most pleased with the response. Orders, anyone?

STUDENTS TAKE SAT EXAM

Most of the seniors have been busy preparing for college this year. Many have already been accepted to the schools of their choice. On Saturday, March 15, four of the aspirants headed for Elmira, New York where they were to take the Scholastic Aptitudes Test and the Achievement Test. The day started off with a forboding note, for dark clouds hung over a rising world. Upon arriving at their destination the boys were assigned to their respective rooms. After a few preliminary remarks by those in charge, the morning test began. Three hours passed quickly and everyone hastened to various diners and restaurants for a hearty lunch, after which they hustled back to the testing center where another afternoon exam was awaiting them. What a relief it was when 5:30 P. M. rolled around, for the tests had been long and tiring. Let's wish those seniors luck in acquiring their acceptances to college.

NEW READING FOR UPPERCLASSMEN

New magazines are being distributed among the upperclassmen. The two main magazines are the Cavalcade and Practical English. In the Cavalcade the students are offered new and interesting reading. The stories and other articles of great men have gained the attention and approval of the boys. There are also some articles on the lighter side which have caught the student's eye.

In Practical English there are the latest news events stories and the like, but the theme of the magazine is the usage of correct English. The tests in the paper are a challenge to the students and one can see them constantly working on the tests.

FATHER TIMOTHY'S FEASTDAY

Fr. Timothy Pawlak, the new Guardian, celebrated his feastday this year on January 24. It was a happy day for the faculty, brothers, and students alike.

Before coming to Padua, Fr. Timothy taught Theology at Christ the King Seminary in West Chicago. Presently, he is the Religion instructor for all classes. Admiring this illustrious past, the Paduans sincerely hope that Fr. Timothy will enjoy many more feasts as this one.

ICE RINK

Winter brings with itself sights of skiers, sledders, and ice skaters. Padua seems to have its share of ice skaters, for no sooner did it snow heavily than they all clamored to get some sort of an ice rink constructed. So some of the boys formed a group to do just that. Under the direction of Chester Szanowski the task was quickly undertaken. At first it seemed almost hopeless, but under Chester's perseverance and guidance they continued to go ahead. At one time the rink was near completion but warmer weather caused a temporary delay in plans.

The designated area for construction was a portion of the athletic field. The overall size of the rink itself was fairly large. A good undercoat first had to be built up on the bare ground. The snow was shoveled out and flooding began. Little by little it started to shape up. After discovering that the old method of using a hose for getting water on the field wasn't too rewarding, Chester and his crew used pails to do the job. After many weeks of hard labor they finally completed it.

Thanks to Chester and his helpers for their time and effort.

ORATORICAL CONTEST

Bishop Kearney of the Diocese of Rochester again as in previous years is sponsoring a public contest for students of the various high schools. This contest is valid for students in the area. To enable a contestant from Padua to be sent, a contest will be held in the school.

Each student participating in the contest will be able to choose his own topic of conversation. The winner of the oratorical contest is chosen on a system of points calculated on his ability to speak, his persuasive power, etc. In order to be prepared for the contest all who are interested should start preparing immediately!

SHAKESPEARE COMES TO LIFE

Shakespeare's plays have come to life for the seniors at Padua through the able assistance of Fr. Terrence Pinkowski. Being able to use Fr. Terrence's records the seniors were able to gain a little more knowledge of such great plays as Macbeth, Othello, and Hamlet.

The plays seemed to transport the seniors back to the time of Othello and the others. The plays imprinted a vivid description of life as it was. They provided for interesting listening, and the experience was well worth it.

PROVINCIAL CELEBRATES FEASTDAY

February is certainly the month for feasts since two feasts fall in that month. One of those is that of Fr. Theophane Kalinowski, Minister Provincial of the Assumption Province, which fell on Sunday, February 2, the feast of the Purification. Here at Padua the usual week-end program was carried out with the celebration delayed until Monday. The student body joyfully observed the feast with a free day, remembering the Provincial in their prayers.

NOTRE DAME RUINED BY JVs
51-39

Playing their third road game in succession, the JVs won their third game in a row by downing Notre Dame 51-39. In the first half both teams supported fine field goal percentages which kept the game close. But in the second half the Paduans, returning to their favorite play, the fast break, went ahead for keeps. Leading the scorers for the "little" Cascaders with 21 points was John Sowa, followed by Clouser with 10.

JVs ROMP OVER WATKINS 57-42

Facing the inexperienced Watkins JVs for the second time this season, the Paduans, using the entire squad, beat Watkins on their home court. Jack Marcheski and Joe Pomaski with their fine rebounding on both boards led the Padua quintet to their fourth victory in seven games. Top scorers for the Cascaders were Pomaski with 13 points, Sowa with 11, and Bahara with 10.

JVs TROUNCED BY NOTRE DAME 56-33

Playing without the services of Tony Zembrzuski, the JVs were easily topped by Notre Dame 56-33. Although Marcheski, the tallest player, played throughout the game, the Crusaders managed to box him in. This was the team's lowest scoring game in 14 starts. Jack Marcheski led the "little" Cascaders with 11 points. Crissy, a freshman, played a fine defensive game and scored 8 points. He shows promise for next year.

MT. CARMEL TRIPS JVs 52-42

Although the lead kept changing hands throughout the contest, Mt. Carmel's JVs capitalized on Padua's free-fouling, which resulted in the loss of Tony Zembrzuski who had been doing a fine job of rebounding. The leading scorers were Joe Pomaski with 15 points, and John Sowa with 11.

ODESSA TRIPPED BY JVs 47-33.

Returning from two weeks at home, the JVs made their presence on the court felt by beating Odessa 47-33. Tony Zembrzuski played his finest defensive game by blocking many shots. Joe Pomaski also contributed with several timely blocked shots. For the second time in five games the entire squad saw action. Leading the Paduans in scoring was John Sowa with 14 points.

CLASS COMPETITION

BASKETBALL

Because of the basketball season, interscholastic activities for the Sweepstakes Trophy were temporarily postponed. But, now the last lap is being started. The day following the conclusion of the basketball season saw the sophomores down the juniors 36-24 in basketball. Immediately following that game, the seniors easily trounced the freshmen 68-25. Since the freshmen are still disorganized, the upper classes spotted them 15 points a half.

On the following day the seniors, employing the whole squad, trounced the juniors, 41-18. Continuing the competition the sophomores had a free-for-all dropping the freshmen 66-14.

In the final two games the juniors had a tough time beating the freshmen 46-24. Actually the freshmen had 39 points including their 15 point spot. The grand finale took place between the seniors and the sophomores. Because of their experience, the seniors dropped the sophomores 41-33. The first quarter saw very little scoring, because both teams were cold. At half time the seniors held a two point edge. As the game progressed the seniors kept enlarging their lead by freezing the ball.

In this round points for the trophy are as follows:

Seniors	75
Sophomores	50
Juniors	25
Freshmen	00

BASEBALL SCHEDULE

PUSHBALL

The whistle blows and the enthusiastic sounds of shuffling feet echo throughout the entire gymnasium. This is a typical scene in the beginning of a pushball game, in which every class competes for the Sweepstakes honors. On the opening day the juniors, basing themselves on two years experience, edged the latent powered sophomores 8-6. At first this game seemed to be a onesided junior free-for-all, until with eight minutes remaining in the game, the sophomores started their scoring spree. Following the game was the senior romp of the freshmen 17-3. After scoring twelve goals in the first period, the seniors, supporting three undefeated years, played a strictly defensive game.

After receiving their splinters against the seniors, the freshmen dropped another game; this one to the juniors 16-3. On the following day the seniors toppled the sophomores 16-4. Both the seniors and the juniors played extremely well in their respective games.

Supporting a week's rest, the classes resumed their competitive activities. Trying to salvage at least one game, the sophomores had an easy time disposing of the freshmen 24-0, while the seniors put away the juniors 15-5.

Points for this round are as follows: seniors 75, juniors 50, sophomores 25, freshmen 00.

The Cascaders played host to Horseheads, the Southern Counties League Champions, in their final game of the season. The strong Horseheads team took a 9 point lead in the first period, and ran the score up to 43-25 at half time. The 2nd half saw the Cascaders playing a tighter zone, but even this was unable to check Horseheads' fast break. The game ended 64-53, thus leaving the Cascaders with a 4-13 record. Ken Ruger was high scorer for Horseheads with 17 points. Bob Bahara and Steve Kurpiel, both of the Cascaders, had 13 points each.

JVs TROUNCHE LAKEMONT 62-49

Returning to their home court the Paduans, led by Zembrzuski's 21 points, toppled Lakemont 62-49. At times the team seemed to grow cold, but important field goals by Clouser helped to sustain the lead. After Zembrzuski in scoring were Clouser with 13 points and Marcheski with 11.

HORSEHEADS EDGES JVs 61-59

Hopes of finishing the season with a winning record were crushed when the JVs lost their final game to Horseheads 61-59. The game was a very close one all the way which made it a tough one to lose. The high scorer for the game was Tony Zembrzuski with 20 points. Flis had 17, and Sowa had 11.

JVs LOSE TO HORNELL 64-43

The JVs dropped their fourth game in succession to Hornell on the opposition's court. New glass backboards acquired by Hornell caused the "little" Cascaders to miss many sure shots. But, despite this handicap they managed to stay in the game until passing proved to be their downfall. Leading scorers for Padua were Sowa with 15, Zembrzuski with 11, and Clouser with 11.

NOTRE DAME TOPPLES PADUA

The Cascaders, guest to Notre Dame, certainly had a difficult time keeping up with the Crusaders. After falling behind 16-13 in the 1st quarter, Notre Dame scored viciously, for the Cascaders were unable to find the mark. At half time the score left Padua behind 41-26. During the second half the Cascaders kept pace, but they could not catch up. The 80-57 defeat left Padua with a 3-8 record.

GYMNASTICS EXHIBITION

Tumble after tumble, feat after feat held the entire student body spellbound for approximately an hour. Usually, tumbles and feats on the parallel bars or the horse don't attract much attention. But, on March 12th a gymnastic team from Ithaca College put on such a good exhibition of their skills that everyone marveled.

Coming from a college and majoring in Physical Education, you might think that such a team is trained in gymnastics. Actually they do train, but the formation of the team is extra curricular. Since a team is not a school regulation, these men developed their skills in their free time.

Comedy mixed with their athletic abilities impressed all of us. Besides being tops in gymnastics, their comedy stunts were something to open one's eye.

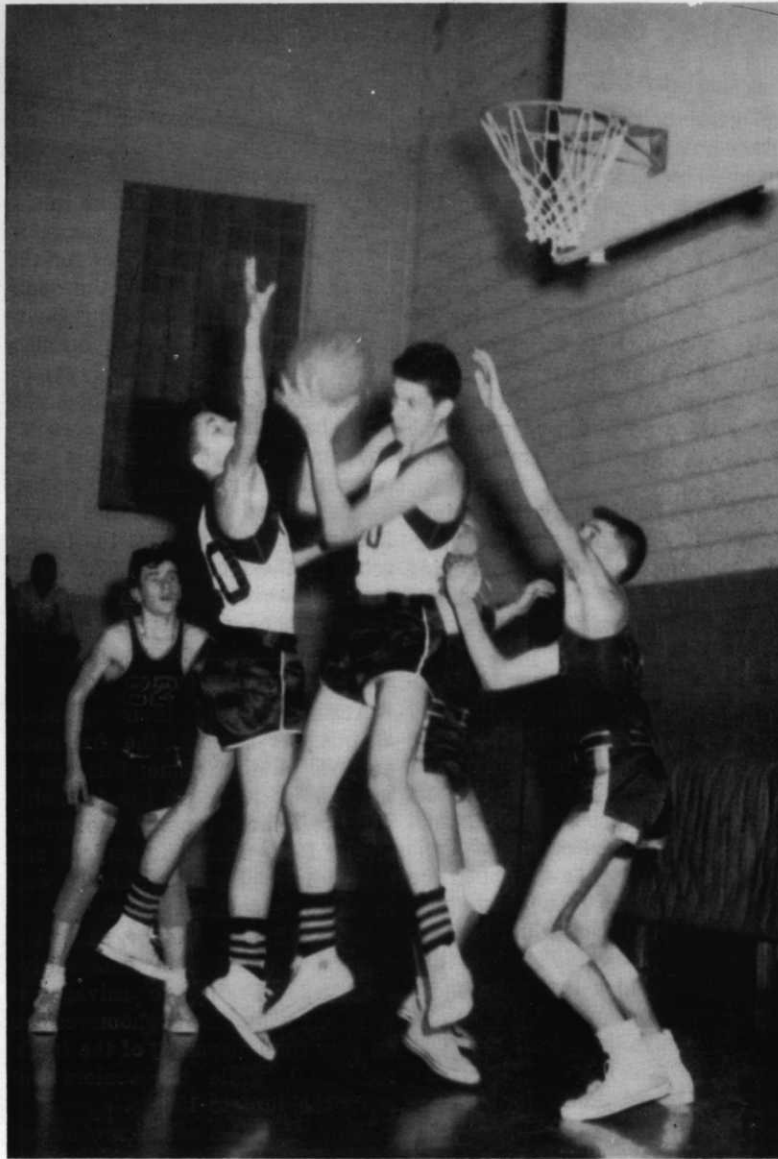

After their demonstration a clinic was conducted for all students desiring some pointers in gymnastics. All at Padua extend their congratulations to the Ithaca College Gymnastic Team, and hope that they will visit us in the future.

JVs TROUNCE ODESSA 57-39

Hardened by a tough loss to C.F.A. and the promotion of Bob Bahara and Joe Pomaski to the varsity, the renewed JV five poured on the points to down Odessa 57-39. The "little" Cascaders, with Zembrzuski and Marcheski playing almost the whole game, grabbed rebound for rebound from both the offensive and defensive boards. Although the Paduans' passes were a bit sloppy in the first half, they managed to stay ahead by 11 points. After the intermission a great improvement in the passing was evident. At times the lead was increased to 20 points. High scorers for Padua were Sowa 19, Zembrzuski 16, and Marcheski 15.

HORSEHEADS CLIPS JVs 64-54

The "little" Cascaders lost their third game in a row by losing to Horseheads, a team that plays for that "sure shot". The prime factor for the loss was the large number of fouls committed by Padua in the second half as compared with Horseheads' three fouls. The game was one of the team's finest, but inconsistency from the floor helped in the loss. Top scorers were Sowa, Zembrzuski, and Clouser, with 15, 14, and 12, respectively.

MT. CARMEL SNAPS JVs' WINNING STREAK, 55-48

A hot-scoring Mt. Carmel team topped Padua 55-48, thus breaking Padua's four game winning streak. The game was close with the lead changing hands several times. But then came the heartbreak when Tony Zembrzuski, one of the tall men, had to leave the game because of injuries received during the game. From here on, the "little" Cascaders fell behind. Leading the scorers for the Padua team was Sowa with 17 points. Clouser was second with 13.

JVs DOWN DUNDEE 48-33

Sparked by John Sowa's defensive playing, the "little" Cascaders crushed Dundee 48-33. Sowa's ball stealing resulted in many fast breaks, while the exceptional rebounding of Zembrzuski & Pomaski held the opposition to a small number of tap-ins. The game was on a basket for basket basis until the fourth quarter. It was then that Padua soared ahead to score 21 points to Dundee's 10. John Sowa was high scorer with 17 points. Bahara and Zembrzuski had 13 and 10 points respectively.

JVs SURPRISED BY C.F.A. 48-47

Trying to even the season's series, the JVs were stunned with ten seconds remaining in the game. Although they tried to maintain possession of the ball in these last crucial seconds, an opposing guard intercepted a pass and raced down court for a game winning lay-up. Tony Zembrzuski was high scorer for Padua with 13 points followed by Bahara with 12, and Sowa with 11.

JVs TOP LAKEMONT 54-46

After a week's layoff, the JVs came back to beat Lakemont on their court 54-46. Capitalizing on the splendid rebounding of Marcheski and Zembrzuski, grabbing 28 and 16 respectively, the "little" Cascaders kept a commanding lead throughout the game. Not only were Marcheski and Zembrzuski outstanding under the boards, but, in the scoring column, they also managed to hit 12 and 11 respectively. The high scorer of the game was John Sowa with 19 points.

YOU CAN'T WIN THEM ALL . . .

CASCADERS LOSE OPENER 62-42

The Cascaders played host to a strong Hornell team for the season's opener. Both teams, trying to play possession ball, played weak in the first quarter. In the closing minutes of the second quarter the Cascaders were behind 21-12.

Hornell completely outclassed the Paduans in the second half by using a full court press, thus leaving them behind 62-42. Gerry Nowotarski was high scorer for the Cascaders with 18 points.

PADUA WHIPS RIVALS

A pepped up Watkins team visited the Padua gym with great confidence of a victory, but left quite dejected. Phil Tereskiewicz' sharp shooting in the first quarter helped to sustain a 10-10 tie. With about three minutes left to play in the second quarter, and with Watkins leading 18-16, the Cascaders scored 16 straight points to take a half time lead of 32-18. In the third and fourth quarters Balsiewicz and Tereskiewicz put on a ten point spree to pull ahead 54-49 to end a surging Watkins rally.

Ron LaPre was high scorer for Watkins with 26 points. Phil Tereskiewicz and John Balsiewicz were high for Padua with 20 and 13 respectively. The figures show:

FREE THROW CHAMPION

Going into the final round of the foul shooting tournament, Stanley Ostaszewski, eight baskets behind the leader, stepped up to the foul line with one thought—a trophy. Not even mentioned in the top five at the time, Ostaszewski proved to be the master of them all. In this final round each participant took 15 shots at each basket. There were 18 finalists. At first it didn't seem like Ostaszewski's day. But then he regained his touch and Malolepszy and Flis seemed to lose theirs.

The official tabulation showed that Ostaszewski hit on 77 of his 90 shots for an 85% average. Flis hit slightly less and came in second. Tied for third were Majka and Malolepszy, each having eight baskets less than the free throw champion. Congratulations Stan!

MT. CARMEL DROPS CASCADERS

The law of averages says that one must have a bad night, and the Cascaders had theirs. Although they were behind only 29-19 at the half, they stalled in the last two periods, and fell behind 59-29 at the final buzzer. Much of the difficulty arose with the lively "half moon" baskets which the Cascaders are not accustomed to.

CFA WHIPS PADUA

The Cascaders met with ball handling difficulties in this game. They played well in the first quarter, but as the CFA big boys began a press, Padua fell behind. The game ended in an 86-51 defeat. Gerry Nowotarski with 15 points was high scorer for the Cascaders.

PADUA LOSES TO ODESSA

After returning from a long Christmas vacation the Padua hoopers met with some trouble in their game against Odessa. At the half, Odessa, a strong and tall club, held the lead 22-20. Padua's deficit was the lack of players tall enough to out-rebound the tall Odessa men. In the third and fourth quarters they used a fast break which was successful in dropping the Cascaders behind 60-35. Gerry Nowotarski was high scorer for Padua with 11 points.

INTRAMURALS

After a long and hectic basketball season the intramural program came to a close. Trophies for the winning team in each league will be awarded at the Commencement Banquet in June. The most rewarding players in "A" League are the players of Phil Tereskiewicz' team, who captured the crown of that league. Their biggest rival was Zarski's team.

Next in line was Mark's team in "B" League, who edged Tulko's team for the crown. The closest race took place in "C" League between the teams of Nowotarski and Brozek. Each team had an 8-2 record, forcing them into a playoff game, which was won by Nowotarski's team for the championship. In "D" League Flis' team walked away with the league's title.

Some of the participants proved to be possible varsity and junior varsity material, but we will have to wait and see next year.

CASCADERS NIP LAKEMONT

The Cascaders, playing on the homewood, were able to defeat Lakemont 52-46. Padua fell behind only once, 36-35, but they pulled ahead and kept the lead. The 52-46 victory gave the Paduans their fourth win. High scorers for the Cascaders were Kurpiel and Nowotarski, having 18 and 14 respectively.

NOTRE DAME NIPS PADUA 62-61

Padua lost one of their most thrilling games of the year when they played host to Notre Dame. Before the Notre Dame five had scored, the Cascaders took a 9-0 lead. Padua continued to pour it on, for Notre Dame was unable to hit the hoop. At the half time buzzer the Cascaders had themselves a 16 point lead. In the second half Hank Santulli and Fred Fuller hit consistently. Gradually the Padua five slowed down and showed signs of tiring. The last quarter proved fatal, for it was then the Crusaders poured on 26 points. The final blow came when with one minute remaining in the game, Joe Cavallaro and Dick Crossed put in six points to take a 62-59 lead. With fourteen seconds left, Gerry Nowotarski made it 62-61. Finally, the Cascaders got the ball on a press with three seconds to go, but the last shot by Nowotarski fell short, thus giving Padua a heartbreaking loss. High scorers were Santulli with 24, Nowotarski with 21, and Kurpiel with 14.

PADUA SNAPS LOSING STREAK

The Cascaders, playing their finest offensive game of the season, beat Lakemont to snap their five game losing streak.

The Cascaders took an early lead in the first quarter 15-11. Lakemont's 6 ft. 9 in. center dropped in quite a few baskets in the second quarter to put Lakemont ahead by five points. With a minute left to go, the Cascaders completed the first half with a score of 31-31. In the second half, outside shots by Joe Pomaski and Steve Kurpiel gave the Cascaders a comfortable 10 point lead. The final score was 70-61, Padua's highest offensive showing this season. High scorers for Padua were Pomaski and Kurpiel with 18 and 17 respectively. The final tally showed:

WATKINS BEATS PADUA

For the first time in five years the Cascaders lost to their eternal rival, Watkins. Both teams scored basket for basket throughout the game. Padua fell behind several times but managed to come up and take the lead. In the last few minutes with the score 45-41 in favor of Watkins, Gerry Nowotarski scored four points, and a jump shot by Kurpiel knotted it at 47 all. With 35 seconds remaining, Watkins put one through the hoop, and at the closing second, another one went through to put them ahead 51-47. Bob Ormsbee was high scorer for Watkins with 19 points, while Nowotarski and Brozek had 16 and 14 respectively, for Padua.

CASCADERS LOSE SECOND TO ODESSA

Playing Odessa on their home-wood, Padua tried to break their losing streak. With two JV players, Pomaski and Bahara, coach Lemak hoped to do just that. From the opening minutes until the second half the game was a basket for basket affair. By the half, Bob Bahara had poured in 13 points. In the third quarter the Cascaders slacked to 8 points, while Odessa dropped in 22. They couldn't keep up the pace. Padua fought back in the fourth quarter as Pomaski connected for 6 points in a row, but it was too late.

Seager was high for Odessa with 19 points. Bahara and Pomaski led the Cascaders with 17 and 13 respectively.

HORNELL RIPS PADUA 96-72

This contest saw Padua play one of its finest games of the season, even though it ended in a defeat. The game started out in a rough and tumble manner, with both teams scoring consistently. By the successful use of a fast break, Hornell was able to drop the Cascaders behind 21 points at the half. After a strong pep talk by the coach, the Padua five came back to within 7 points in the third quarter. But again the Hornell team pulled ahead. In the final quarter both teams continued bombing the hoop, but the Cascaders were unable to overtake Hornell's lead.

PADUA DROPS 4th STRAIGHT

The strong CFA team invaded the Padua hardwood and took things into their own hands very quickly. The Cascaders, unable to score or get rebounds, fell behind 36-14 at half time. The second half turned out to be just as bad, for CFA hit over 57% of their shots. At the closing horn Padua was down 65-34. High scorers were Shaddock, with 23 points, and Balsiewicz and Kurpiel of Padua with 8 apiece.

DRILL AND GYMNASTICS TEAM FORMED

Trying to compensate for the lack of activities between basketball and baseball season, Fr. Emil has suggested the formation of a gymnastics team, which the student body has enthusiastically acknowledged. Instead of having a large number of boys on one team, Fr. Emil has split up the participants into two individual teams, namely, a drill team and a gymnastics team.

The members of each team are expected to be in tip-top condition for a display of their skills on Mother's Day. The drill team will consist of two squads which will demonstrate the art of close rank marching, while the gymnastics team will demonstrate a variety of tumbles and gymnastic feats. We're all hoping it will prove to be a huge success.

PADUA LOSES TO HORSEHEADS 78-55

Horseheads took advantage of their height and substitutes to beat a fighting Padua team. By the end of the first quarter the Cascaders had fallen behind 20-13. The hard driving of Bob Bahara enabled the Cascaders to make it 30-30 at half time. The tiring Padua team slowly fell behind, while Horseheads, seeing the opportunity, substituted freely. Horseheads led by six points going into the fourth quarter, but increased this lead to make the final score 78-55. Rich Janne was high for Horseheads with 27, while Bob Bahara totaled 19 for Padua.
